Bridgman Remembers Bank Bandit's Hat, Gun

By STEVE McQUOWN
Staff Writer

The gunman who took $55,000 from the Bridgman branch of the Farmers and Merchants National bank a week ago impressed townspeople with his hat and two bank employees with the handgun he used.

But other than that, according to Berrien county sheriff's Det. Paul Mills, there is precious little else police have to go on.

Mills made his remarks as he released a state police artist's sketch of the white man who held two bank employees at gunpoint in the bank's vault before leaving the building un-noticed with the money stuffed in a black bowling bag on Oct. 10.

Mills said it was hoped the artist's sketch might lead to information from the public on where the holdup man stayed, where he ate, and importantly, what type of vehicle he was driving.

"At this point, we have no suspects or substantial leads," Mills said.

The sheriff's detective believes the man may have spent two days prior to the bank robbery in the Bridgman area.

Mills said the man was in town on Wednesday, two days before the robbery, and stopped in at the bank to inquire about opening a safety deposit box.

Mills also said the suspect even signed some papers that have been sent into the FBI for fingerprint analysis.

On Friday, the day of the robbery, he spent some time in Louie's tavern, directly across Lake street from the branch, Mills said police have been told.

Mills said merchants and others recall seeing the man because of the hat he wore, a puffed-up, dark blue or plaid hat with a red tassel.

Mrs. Marlene Sorgot, the branch assistant manager, recalls the handgun the man brandished once she had accompanied him to the open vault to examine safety deposit boxes.

Mills said the man pointed the gun at her and another bank employee and threatened to "blow her head off" if she set off an alarm or alerted other bank employees to his presence.

Mills said the gun is believed to have been a .45 caliber automatic.

The holdup man has been described by bank employees as about 40, 6 feet 2, and weighing about 220 pounds.

He was wearing denim clothes and the hat. He had a dark complexion and his dark hair was collar length and the mafi appeared to have some blemishes on his face, employees told the FBI and sheriff's deputies.

Police believe the man also used the telephone to lure Branch Manager Kenneth Conklin away from the bank.

Conklin had received a call from a "Trooper Lassiter" of the state police that Mrs. Conklin had been hurt in a traffic accident.

Conklin left the bank and the bandit entered 10 minutes later. The report of Mrs. Conklin's injury turned out to be false.

BANK ROBBER SKETCH: This is state police artist's sketch of lone gunman who took $55,000 from Bridgman branch of Farmers and Merchants National bank week ago today. Police said they hope sketch will draw more information from public on holdup man's activities prior to robbery and lead to capture.

New Buffalo Parents Accused Of Extortion

By AL AREND
Staff Writer

NEW BUFFALO — Warrants charging extortion have been issued against the parents of two juveniles involved with what police here say was a year-long extortion of money from a 73-year-old widow.

The warrants against Jack Lee Rheinoltz, 34, and his wife, Harriet, of 518½ West Buffalo street, were issued by Judge Ronald Taylor, Berrien Fifth district court.

Ed Lyons, New Buffalo city police officer, said this morning he expects the Rheinoltz couple to be taken into custody either today or Saturday.

Lyons said a total of eight juveniles, ranging in age from 12 to 16, were taken into custody Wednesday in connection with the bizarre story of threats, property damage and at least one assault on Mrs. Emma Welderich, Ferena Square Apts., in the city. Lyons said two more juveniles were to be questioned today in connection with the alleged extortion, plus the mother of one of the other juveniles.

Lyons said one of the juveniles has been lodged in the Berrien county youth detention center in Berrien Center and the other seven have been released to the custody of their parents.

Two of the boys were taken into custody Wednesday morning after New Buffalo police and Berrien Metro crime officers allegedly observed them demand cash from Mrs. Welderich, Lyons said. Their apprehension led to the arrest of the other New Buffalo youths.

Lyons said this morning that all of the eight juveniles taken into custody have police records two of them for previous assault and battery and breaking and entering. They live within a two to eight-block area of the apartments.

Lyons said two of the juveniles are also believed to have been involved in extortion attempts at New Buffalo middle school, where actual physical violence allegedly was inflicted on other students in an attempt to receive money.

Mrs. Welderich told police the extortion and threats began about a year ago, last November, when a group of boys began demanding initial payments of $1. She said the demands eventually rose to $7.

Mrs. Welderich told police she kept records of the cash she handed over to the boys under threats, and on some days paid as much as $53.

Officer Lyons said Mrs. Welderich has paid over $1,000 since last November.

Neighbors of the woman called police after seeing the boys in front of the woman's Ferena Square apartment. Mrs. Welderich said she was afraid to call police because she was a resident of Nazi-occupied Czechoslovakia during World War II and she feared police.

The woman told police the boys would kick in her doors, break windows, burn her carpets with cigarettes and destroy her flowers if she did not pay them.

Lyons said the woman told police that last week several of the boys entered her apartment while she was canning applesauce. When she could not give them cash they demanded, the boys took a spoon containing hot applesauce and poured it over her right hand, giving her third-degree burns, she told police.

Names of the juveniles involved are being withheld by police.

Replies To Editorial In Saturday's Edition

Replies to an editorial in The Herald-Palladium Thursday will be published in full in Saturday's edition. The replies are too lengthy for today's publication schedule. The responses are from Mrs. Helen Ford, executive director of Berrien County Action, and County Commissioner Bill Joseph to the editorial "County Majority Tells It Like It Is." The editorial commented on a resolution, passed 11 to 2, by the Berrien county board of commissioners. The resolution was a counterattack by the board majority to criticisms by Benton Harbor officials.

NYC On Brink Of Collapse

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City tottered on the brink of financial collapse today, its treasuries virtually empty and a rescue plan shattered by the last-minute refusal of a teachers' union to allow the use of pension funds.

State and city officials worked frantically to get the union trustees of the pension funds to change their minds — or, failing that, to obtain more help from state pension monies or a loan from the Federal Reserve system.

But they appeared pessimistic about their chances of success. And the city, which had stayed off default over six hectic months of financial maneuvering, faced a 3 p.m. deadline for $453 million in debt obligations for which it has almost no cash.

The prospective default raised the danger of immediate, major disruptions of the city's life — massive furloughs of city employees, payless paydays, unpaid welfare benefits, school closings and perhaps even a loss of some police and fire protection.

Some financial analysts have warned that default could undermine the stability of the nation's entire financial system and threaten the economic recovery. Others, including the top economic-policy-makers of the Ford Administration, have disputed that view.

Ali To Lead March To Embattled Prison

By CARL ZEITZ
Associated Press Writer
TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Muhammad Ali planned to lead a freedom march today for boxer Rubin "Hurricane"

Carter, jailed at Trenton State Prison where a power struggle involving Muslim inmates left one prisoner dead and six others wounded on Thursday.

Organizers said the march demanding Carter's release would go on as scheduled but that the route would be diverted to the state house instead of the prison because of a violent clash between black inmates of different Muslim sects inside the prison.

All, heavyweight boxing champion, also is a Muslim. Carter, who is not a member of the religious organization, is serving a triple life sentence for three 1966 murders in Paterson, N.J. The former middleweight contender was not involved in Thursday's prison violence.

Last year, two men who had testified against Carter said they lied when they placed him at the murder scene, but a Superior Court judge turned down Carter's request to be set free on the basis of the new testimony. That decision is being appealed.

Authorities said the violence at the prison involved an attack by members of the Nation of Islam against members of a splinter group, New World of Islam. They said the attack, which lasted only a few minutes, was carried out by an undetermined number of inmates using homemade weapons, such as screwdrivers sharpened to a point.

Four of the wounded were serving life sentences for the 1973 murder of James McGregor Shabazz, one-time minister of the Nation of Islam mosque in Newark, N.J., and prominent national Muslim figure.

The four were identified as Ben Walton, 22; James Coy, 19; Albert Chavies, 25; and Lamont Calloway, 22, all of East Orange, N.J. The other two wounded inmates were Raymond E. Dozier, 26, of East Orange, serving life for a murder unrelated to the Shabazz killing; and Anthony

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

A Winning Gambler Beats The IRS Rap

There are certain joys in being self employed and compensatory woes as well. There is the freedom in being one's own boss and the elasticity in going at one's own pace or inclinations. By the same token, if one does not stir his stumps or if his marketplace goes to pot, there is no pay cheque to fall back upon; and if the business prospers, inevitably it ceases being a one-man show and pretty soon the boss has employee problems to contend with. The government, of course, is a silent, though not very helpful, partner in the venture. All the rules and regulations that apply to a General Motors put their heavy hand on the small enterprise. One of those pains is Social Security or, as it is called on the tax forms, FICA. In the ordinary employer-employee relationship, this amounts to a payroll tax of 5.85 per cent each from the boss and the worker. For self employed persons, it is 8 per cent of whatever they earn. Recently the Tax Court, the tribunal at Washington which resolves the knottier arguments between the Internal Revenue Service and those it is pursuing, threw a limited collar on this self employed demand. The IRA filed suit against one Alfred Gentile claiming he was a professional gambler and thereby subject to paying the 8 per cent on his winnings. The Service became alerted to the idea from his income tax returns which showed that for several years he was pulling in $9,000 annually from playing the horses, playing cards and dice, and wagering on sports events. He had losers which were traded off against the winnings, but consistently he showed himself to be ahead of the game. The income tax return also revealed this was Gentile's sole means of support. Equating livelihood with business or professional activity, the IRS demanded he pay the 8 per cent tax on the net winnings, plus the customary interest and penalties for tardy filing. The Tax Court ruled, "No dice." It rejected the contention that a livelihood is automatically a business, that business is the producing of goods or services, hopefully, for a profit. When Gentile stepped up to a mari-mutuel window or sat down to a friendly little game, said the Court, he was not offering goods or services to anyone. In fact, the learned judges likened his dedicated study of the daily racing form to an investor screening the stock market reports to manage his own portfolio. IRS can appeal the decision to the Supreme Court, but the odds are on Gentile. The Supreme Court has said, in effect, that Congress created the Tax Court to put the final finger on taxpayer questions and unless the upper court feels an overwhelming compulsion to dig into a dispute, it accepts the Tax Court's word as the ultimate gospel. Lest those who earn a living, by shilling a game or making book feel prompted to follow Gentile's steps, the Tax Court has disheartening words for them. They definitely are in business to take the customer.

Capping The Wells Puts Venice, Italy Back On The Rise

Little over a year ago, a memberable television special told the people of America that storied Venice, Italy, was not so slowly sinking beneath its fabled canals. Well, the process has been slowed, possibly even reversed. After years of slippage into the Adriatic, the famed city is reported to be on the rise. The secret was in the capping of artesian wells, permitting replenishment of underground water tables. Preservationists concerned for the future of Venice's ancient architecture and art treasures can relax — just a bit. Recent computations indicate Italy's city of canals may be able to rise above its watery bed to the extent of an inch or so every five years. But — always, it seems, there is a "but" — there is still the matter of high tides to contend with. Looks like the push-back-the-water brigade has another job on its hands.

Amendment Needed For High Court, Too

Questions surrounding the health of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, and his ability to function fully in the sometimes exhausting position he holds, have brought the unique position of the court's members into public view. Alone among all the top officers of government, justices of the high court are on the job for life and cannot be removed for any reason — disability included — except misconduct, and then only by impeachment.

Members of Congress who through illness or accident can no longer perform their functions are at least subject to public review every two or six years at the polls. Under the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, even the President now can be removed from office, at least temporarily, if in the judgment of the Vice President and a majority of the top cabinet officers he is unable to discharge his duties. No similar provision applies to the Supreme Court. Even should a member be totally incapacitated, only death or voluntary retirement could remove him from the bench. The issue perhaps is of greater importance today because of the tight philosophical split of the court and the frequent 5-4 decisions it hands down on major questions.

'NEW MATH' DOESN'T ADD UP FOR HER

Editor, Now that the flap over the Columbus school tax levy is over I'd like the answer to one question:

If — as quoted in the Oct. 14 issue of this newspaper — the school must cut supplies and five teachers, how can they raise the pay of the administrators and cafeteria staff?

I know this new math is great, but even a dumb taxpayer like me can't believe it's that great!

WANTS FARM WAGE HEARING PUBLICIZED

Editor, Can we have more news coverage on hearings to be held by the House Committee on Agriculture on legislation of Labor Bill 4921, dealing with piece work and hourly wage paid by farmers?

The hearings are to be held at the Holiday Inn, Benton Harbor, on Monday, Oct. 20, at 2 p.m.

If this bill goes through the farmer cannot continue. The good workers who earn more than $2 won't return and the poor workers will draw their money and help us not at all. This hearing gives us a chance to be heard so all farmers go to the Holiday Inn on Monday afternoon, Oct. 20, and "tell it like it is."

Millie Schultz, President, Southwest Chapter, Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan

P.S. Do you notice I'm using red ink...that's the only kind farmers need.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A story with details of the upcoming hearing appears on the farm page in today's edition, and a staff reporter will cover the hearing.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

Dear Congressmen: On the eve of your ten-day recess on honor of Columbus Day, I note that you voted yourselves an increase in the tax exemption that you are allowed for the days you are in session. I do not know how much this amounts to, at $44 per day, but I suppose in view of the increased tax liability you have due to the uncalculated salary hike you voted yourselves, you could justify this action.

It seems to me that almost everybody is interested in higher wages and cheaper food — the philosophy of everybody for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

I believe in our way of government and think that you as our elected representatives should provide leadership of which we all can be proud.

If the present thinking and actions of the Congress continues with its almost complete disregard for the problems of farmers, I believe food will Does Interpol Violate Rights?

WASHINGTON — For more than 50 years the International Criminal Police Organization, Interpol, has categorized itself as a big police force with little police power. Spokesmen insist Interpol is like a private detective collective with units in 120 member nations, and whose authority does not go beyond the gathering and passing on of information between various police jurisdictions.

Thus has any question of Interpol's potential for abuse been soundly denied by Interpol officers; it can not arrest, it can not extradite, it is "merely a conduit for information dissemination."

In fact it is much more than this. Given its ability to pursue investigations far beyond the borders of normal legal authority, and given also its isolation from the official responsibilities and limitations of state law enforcement, Interpol is in its own way the most powerful and far-reaching police agency in the world.

One distressing example should illustrate the point. Enter Mohammed Sami, an international civil servant from Afghanistan, working under United Nations oversight and living in Washington. Sami has filed suit against Interpol for $3 million, charging that the United States branch with having recklessly and illegally forced his arrest, detention and humiliation last summer.

Sami, it should be noted, and as will be shown, is an embittered man, thus his comments on Interpol should obviously be read in that light. But the facts of his clash with Interpol USA, being heavily documented, are for the most part not in dispute. As Sami says it, and documents verify, he was granted a divorce from his American wife in 1974, and at that time given custody of his two children by a Maryland judge. "My wife, however, wasn't satisfied. She took the children and moved to Florida. I was allowed to visit the children, but only occasionally and with guards present. Last spring, on a visit, I got fed up with the guards and decided to take the children on vacation; so when we were alone we slipped away."

Sami's decision to take the kids on holiday, unwise at best, was used by his former wife as grounds for the issuance of a Florida arrest warrant. And in the second week of May, Interpol entered the picture. No one is certain how Interpol became involved, but its right of interest is not in question. An arrest warrant was issued for Sami, he was leaving the country, and under terms of Interpol's charter that's all the information it needed to become involved.

The extent of Interpol's involvement, and the judgments used therein, however, are at issue. According to documents, Interpol pursued Sami, merely a father involved in a domestic tangle, as if he were a heinous thug. Dozens of cables were sent to Interpol capitals in Europe, not suggesting but ordering Sami's arrest.

At several points the cables sounded as if they had originated in the U.S. State Department, rather than in a private police office. The "USA will extradite," Interpol excessively assured in an "urgent" cable to Rome on May 19, "please take immediate action to arrest Sami."

Eventually Sami was arrested by German police and detained three days, illegally, as it happened, Interpol had insisted Sami was a kidnaper, but there is no extradition agreement for that offense between West Germany and America.

In the end Sami's government complained that the American government and the State Department, never contacted by Interpol during the chase, issued an apology to Sami for his "illegal detention" and discomforts.

Interpol now refuses to discuss the Sami case, saying such would violate his right to privacy. That right, of course, was already violated when, as the biological father legally entitled to the custody of his children, he was chased half way around the world by an Interpol claiming he was a kidnaper.

"How could they do it?" Sami asks now, shaking his head. "And if they could do it to me they can do it to anyone. Who are these people that they can do such things in the world?"

Our 'Levelers' Miss The Point

In a recent column, I argued that the "all men are created equal" clause of the Declaration of Independence emphatically does not commit the United States to an endless process of leveling — and this is not an idle scholarly argument, dealing with issues long buried in the past. It has to do with our self-definition as a people, and that in turn bears directly on public policy.

A powerful current of opinion now maintains that American society ought to be "progressively" restructured so as to bring about a condition of general equality. This current is especially powerful in academic circles where it has achieved the status of a virtual assumption.

The levelers, or course, present a variety of arguments, both practical and theoretical, but they characteristically speak of the "unfinished business of democracy" — as if there had been a leveling agenda announced at the founding of the republic, which in the subsequent 200 years has been realized only most imperfectly. And, as part of the theoretical support for this position, the levelers appeal to the "all men are created equal" clause of the Declaration.

It is therefore important to understand, as I have pointed out, that in the original document the "all men are created equal" clause carries no such meaning, no, not anything resembling it. How then did Jefferson's language come to be appropriated by the leveling egalitarians? "Equality of condition" has all the earmarks of a utopian idea. That is, "utopia" means "nowhere" — and equality of condition has been achieved in no historical society. The whole idea, I should say, is more in the spirit of 19th-century utopian longings than of Jefferson's hard-headed 18th-century reasonableness.

And I think we can see the new egalitarianism — a utopian and quasi-religious emotion — beginning to make itself felt in one of the most famous and revered of 19th-century American pronouncements: Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. Here Lincoln uses the language of Jefferson to say something very different from the Declaration.

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

This represents a startling reversal, and I think a dangerous one, of Jefferson's meaning. For Jefferson, men were equal "at the beginning" — before the establishment of government. For Jefferson governments are various in design, and legitimate to the degree that they secure "unalienable rights" — life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

In the Gettysburg Address, Lincoln appears to make "equality" the overriding goal of the American nation.

SJ Planners Told Transport Net Is Ailing

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

St. Joseph planning commission was informed yesterday that the city's transportation system is "plagued with deficiencies."

Planners Tom Sinn and James J. Muldoon of the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission did not unveil any new statistics. Their comments, however, on previously published data on the effects of traffic congestion, emphasized the seriousness of the problem.

The regional planners used the results of the 1972 Origin and Destination survey prepared by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation for the Benton Harbor and St. Joseph area.

The planners commented: "Because of the locations of two downtown retail centers located in each city directly opposite each other an 'hourglass effect' takes place with high traffic volume showing significant increases as you approach the St. Joseph business district from either a southerly or a northerly direction."

The comment continued: "Very high traffic volume exists — in excess of 20,000 vehicles per day — on Lake Shore drive, Main street, Niles avenue and Napier avenue within the city."

Streets up to 25 per cent over the level of capacity included Main street between Niles and Port streets; Main street from Port to the St. Joseph river and Ship street between Wayne and Church streets.

Streets 25 to 50 per cent over capacity were listed as Wayne street between Port street and the Morrison channel; Hilltop road between Cleveland and Lakeview avenues; and Cleveland between Hilltop and Hawthorne avenues.

Streets 50 per cent or more over capacity were listed as the bridge over the Morrison channel and Hilltop road between Niles and Lakeview avenues. New bridges are scheduled for completion in 1977 to eliminate one bottleneck.

Commented the regional planners: "These high traffic volumes in turn have an adverse effect on adjacent residential communities (neighborhoods) since the users of the transportation system tend to look for the path of least resistance to reach their destination."

The regional planners continued: "These negative effects tend to have an adverse affect on the neighborhoods, making these areas less desirable to live in."

In other aspects of the transportation report the regional planners did not expect Dial-a-Ride will have a significant impact in reducing traffic congestion. Likewise, it did not expect bicycle use to do much more than add to the congestion by mixing radically different types of vehicles on the same roadway.

The planners noted harbor tonnage dropped by 40 per cent between 1971 and 1974 but were encouraged by increase in recreational boat use.

The regional planners were commissioned by the city to prepare the report.

BERRIEN BUDGET TO TOP $10 MILLION

County's 1976 Spending Will Rise 13 Per Cent Over This Year

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien county's 1976 budget will top the $10 million mark for the first time and represent a 13 per cent increase over this year's budget.

Much of the increase was due to state-ordered programs forced on the county and salaries for personnel who this year were paid under federal programs, according to members of the board of commissioners' finance committee. Lad Stacey, chairman of the committee, labeled the $10,140,600 budget "realistic" as the committee previewed the proposed budget to newsmen yesterday.

The budget is the largest ever proposed by Berrien county, and is up 13 per cent over 1975's amended budget and 15 per cent over the budget adopted last year by the county board.

The 1975 adopted budget was $8,794,900 — later amended to $8,917,000.

The 1976 budget is based on estimated receipts of $5,836,900 from a 5.425-mill property tax, and $4,303,700 in revenue from state, federal and other sources.

The new budget contains an $805,200 contingency fund for salary increases, administrative costs and emergency expenditures. Total amount of pay increases is not yet determined.

Increases in state-mandate programs will cost $200,000 more for mental health institutionalization, $328,200 more in mental health juvenile court primarily for court-appointed attorneys for juveniles, and $134,000 extra for child care.

"I think it's one of the tightest budgets I've seen since I've been on the finance committee," noted Carl Gnodtke, who's served on the committee five of the last seven years.

Another member, Kenneth Wendzel, added that inflation on items such as paper seems to be leveling off. Inflation was cited by the committee last year as the prime reason for a 10 per cent increase over the 1974 budget.

Stacey said his committee will recommend the tentative budget be approved by the county board at a public hearing to be held Oct. 23 at 10 a.m. Following the public hearing, the budget will immediately go before the board for action.

Should it not receive approval, the board would still have until the end of the month to pass a budget.

One of the biggest increases indicated is in the administration of federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) programs, from 1975's $32,800 to 1976's $251,800.

Committee members noted a large part of the increase came because Neighborhood Youth Corps programs had to be taken

PREVIEW $10 MILLION BUDGET: Members of finance committee of Berrien county board of commissioners review proposed $10.1 million budget during news conference yesterday. It's highest budget ever proposed for county, and represents 13 per cent increase over this year's actual budget and 15 per cent more than

Stevensville To Partition Office For Police Unit

Stevensville village council last night voted to construct a partition in the village hall and use one-third of the building as a police department office. No cost estimate was given for materials to be used.

Donald DeMorrow, trustee, agreed to construct the partition at no cost to the village and Charles Kerlikowske, trustee, said he would donate office furniture.

In other business, the council directed Police Chief Richard Beck to submit the original plans for the Lakeshore Mobile Estates park to the attorney of the park's owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Sekel, Detroit.

The attorney made the request for the plans after the council earlier this month notified that owners they would have to re-open the Johnson road entrance to the park. Original plans submitted by the former owner, Allen Gramis, St. Joseph, designated the Johnson road entrance as the park's main entrance.

The St. Joseph avenue entrance, the only one now being used by park residents, was approved by the council about two years ago as a subsidiary entrance. Council trustees have said it will be a traffic hazard in the winter as the entrance slants downward toward the St. Joseph avenue, the main and most traveled street in the village, and have asked that it be closed.

The purchase of 128 feet of 12-inch storm drain at a cost of $345 from Larnar Tile Service, Grand Rapids, was approved. The drain will be installed on the north side of John Beers road, from Ridge road toward Red Arrow highway.

Beck reported additional "no hunting" signs have been posted in the village as a reminder that it is in violation of a village ordinance to discharge any kind of firearms within the village limits. He added that leaf burning on village streets is prohibited because it destroys to blacktop.

The council also approved an hourly pay increase for Kevin Green, street department employee, from $3.50 for $4 and to repair the police car radar equipment for $127.

Green reported five village street signs, valued at $125, have been stolen in the past two weeks. The council voted to offer an award of $25 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of people taking the signs.

The council approved trick-or-treating hours in the village for Friday, Oct. 31, between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Pick-up days for rubbish and large items will be Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 20-21.

PLEDGES AT 78.7% OF GOAL

BUW Drive Posts New Record

Volunteer solicitors for the Blossomland United Way campaign set a record for a second campaign report Thursday when 78.7 per cent of the $730,000 was reached, according to Dr. Walter Browe, assistant general campaign chairman.

Browe said contributors have pledged $574,400 for 1976 United Way agency operations.

Campaigners at the St. Joseph Elks club were told that intensified efforts and enthusiasm together with community concern are responsible for the new high mark. In the goal-winning 1974 campaign, 66 per cent of the total needed pledges had been received at the second report lunch, Browe said.

Volunteers got a new lift when Warren Hahn and Harold Andrus introduced a new United Way fight song designed to inspire campaigners to work and reach their goals.

Several area employee groups were cited by United Way leaders for outstanding support. Employees at Type House, Inc., registered 100 per cent leadership giving (formerly Fair Share). The formula (based on one hour's pay per month) boosted the per capita giving at Type House to $94.39.

All Burch Printers employees have pledged to the 1975 campaign, 98 per cent of whom signed up for leadership giving. Burch contributors reached $96.32 per capita placing them second highest in per employee giving in the United Way area.

Plastronic Packaging corporation employees increased their support of United Way services by 166 per cent over 1974, while Imperial Printing company staff boosted contributions by 32 per cent. Benton Harbor city employees rolled up a 115 per cent increase since 1974, while the crew at Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Sewage Disposal plant added an 87 per cent increase on last year's support. Unions have subscribed 181 per cent higher than 1974.

Employees at the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce listed a 198 per cent increase from the 1974 contribution, while the staff at Social Security office posted a 23.5 per cent gain. A huge 231 per cent jump in United Way gifts was registered by the employees of Doubleday Brothers and company. Inter City Bank employee's contributions rose 5 per cent with participation more than doubled over last year.

Claiming that "people will dig deeper if they get the United Way message," Carroll Gerbel, 1974 campaign chairman praised employees of Auto Specialties Manufacturing company where per capita giving rose 43 per cent despite 18 per cent fewer employees. Heath Company, down 22 per cent in employees, added a 20 per cent increase to per capita gifts, and Whirlpool Administrative Center, off 11 per cent over 1974 employment, gained 6 per cent per employee giving.

Joining the list of United Way area employee groups supporting United Way services are Hilltop Foods and Mr. Steak employees, whose added support will help the campaign reach its goal.

Division chairmen reported the following standings for the nine soliciting divisions of the campaign: Major Firms A, 87.8 per cent; Major Firms B, 66.2 per cent; Public, 58.5 per cent; Professional, 71.3 per cent; Industry, Commerce, Labor, Construction, 54.6 per cent; Special Gifts, 84.7 per cent; Metro A, 52.7 per cent; Metro B, 53.8 per cent, and Miscellaneous, 85.6 per cent.

Sections of the various divisions which have exceeded their percentage goals are Municipal in the Public Division, 165 per cent; Metro B, Retirees, 135 per cent; Metro B, Eau Claire, 114 per cent; Metro B, Benton Harbor, 134 per cent;

Professional, Hospitals, 131 per cent; ICLC, Unions, 181 per cent; Public, other non-profit, 125 per cent and Public Schools, 109 per cent.

Browe said volunteers, whose percentage goal for Thursday was 75 per cent have proved hard work can do the job. He said campaign leaders are aiming for 92 per cent of the goal by Oct. 23 when the third report lunch will be held at noon in the St. Joseph Elks club.

BUW VOLUNTEERS SET RECORD: Volunteer solicitors in the 1975 Blossomland United Way campaign set a new reporting record Thursday when 78.7 per cent of the $730,000 goal was reached. Joining assistant general campaign chairman Dr. Walter Browe (center) in celebrating the new high mark are Phyllis Boss, left, whose fellow employees at Type House, Inc., pledged 100 per cent Fair Share giving, and Harriet Phillips, Burch Printers. Burch employees pledged $96.32 per employee with 100 per cent participation in the canvass.

SANDVIK SYMPOSIUM: Swedish-based Sandvik Steel, Inc., officials and steel manufacturing company's customers met yesterday at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn to discuss tolerance and fatigue properties of flapper valve produced by Sandvik, which has plant in Pipestone Industrial District, Benton township. Flapper valve, which is manufactured in widths as thin as .003 of an inch, is critical valve in compressors and pumps used in refrigerators, outboard motors and automobiles. Theme of the worldwide celebration of World Community Day will be "One Community Under God."

On Nov. 7, thousands of church women will gather in their local communities to commit themselves to work toward a global society in which all persons will have the opportunity to realize their aspirations in "One Community Under God."

A year ago, women from every state and many nations came together in the triennial Ecumenical Assembly of Church Women United to consider the enormous problems of today's world, to identify the barriers which prevent a majority of the earth's people from living freely and fully, and to rededicate themselves, as a body, to work for a global society based on human values instead of economic ambition. They realized that today's human society is inseparably interwoven and that the massive problems of the world — hunger, poverty, war, the depletion and misuse of natural resources and sources of energy, the destruction of the environment and the deprivation of human rights — can best be approached as problems confronting the entire global village.

The dream of one community is not new for Church Women United. The goal of building a world community which lives in peace was one of the cornerstones of this movement when it began. In 1941, during the week of Pearl Harbor, when the constituting convention of the United Council of Church Women met at Atlantic City, one of its first acts was to inaugurate a day of peace. Every year since then, church women have celebrated World Community Day on the first Friday in November, to emphasize corporate action for justice and peace.

World Community Day is more than just one day of special emphasis for Church Women United. In anticipation of the 1975 celebration, task forces will be formed in local units to work on action programs focusing on concrete world problems such as hunger.

In the context of international implications, personal and material commitments will be advocated to bring about a more equitable distribution of food to the whole human family.

Nationwide offerings received on World Community Day go into an Intercontinental Mission fund which enables Church Women United to express commitment to be caring and sharing members of the one community under God which they envision. Some of the current problems receiving grants which will help build a better tomorrow for children are: assistance in the day-to-day operations of a health center in Guyana; a creative arts and recreation program for children and youth in a family center in Chicago; a day care center on the Blackfeet Indian Reservation in Montana; a nursery which provides a half-way house for adoption of Vietnamese orphans; temporary shelters to serve as school rooms for children in a squatter area on the outskirts of an Asian city.

Annual grants through approved agencies are also made for programs such as: higher education for women in overseas Christian colleges; education for minority women in new careers and for American Indian youth; preparation and distribution of Christian literature for women and children in Asia, Africa and Latin America; ministries among migrant farm workers; support for the Christian ministry in national parks.

Through the purchase of $3 gift certificates church women respond with material aid to human beings who are in need of immediate relief from the ravages of war, famine, poverty and natural disasters. They also assist in rehabilitation and reconciliation programs in war-torn areas, provide seed money and training for self-help projects and give timely help "where most needed" in response to emerging opportunities.

Stop Stuttering

Approaching stuttering as a nervous habit, two Illinois psychologists have developed a deep breathing technique which so far has proved 99 per cent effective in eliminating lifetime stuttering habits.

The procedure requires that patients interrupt their speech to take an exaggerated deep breath whenever they begin to stutter. This gives them time to relax throat muscles consciously and to formulate thoughts before going on to the next set of words.

According to a report in "Medical Tribune," a publication for physicians, the entire procedure requires only one office visit for the patient to learn the technique, and then a two-week follow-up period during which the patient is called daily to check his progress.

Common Illness In Flights

Gastrointestinal disturbances have been reported by the major airlines as a common illness encountered during flights.

"All travel tends to be exhausting," an article in the British Medical Journal contends; lengthy check-in security, screening, and emigration procedures at airports may cause anxiety before the passenger has even boarded.

An analysis of reports submitted by the cabin crews of one airline shows that other common illnesses encountered during flights include ear, nose and throat problems, burns, sprains, and bruises.

In addition, flight personnel encountered cases of angina, heart failure, shortness of breath, and asthma. There were also reports of a number of faintings and a few fits.

Attending to last-minute business and home details, such as packing and worrying about making the plane on time, may mean hurried bolting of food or liquids, eating convenience foods that are less easily digested, and perhaps inadvertent and nervous swallowing of air.

To relax, the passenger may smoke more heavily than usual and, while waiting for his dinner, drink his quota of carbonated beverages and liquor, which only add to his problem.

Such activity and anxieties may contribute to pre-boarding and pre-take-off tensions — and to the accumulation of gastrointestinal gas, according to other medical reports.

Gas bubbles form in the intestines and cling together in masses of froth. They may be felt as uncomfortable bloating, cramps, and sometimes as acute pain.

There are a number of medications available today that contain an ingredient to relieve the symptoms of gastrointestinal gas. One preparation, a tablet, was developed specifically for this problem; its effectiveness has been reported in medical journals by a number of gastroenterologists. It is available without a prescription.

The author of the article in the British Medical Journal observes that, because air travel is expensive, airline passengers are inclined to be middle-aged or older, and therefore more likely to be affected adversely by the hazards of travel, and by pre-existing conditions that contribute to them.

Hamilton paid up. And it sure paid off.

The War of Independence had put us in the red for $27 million in securities.

It would have been easy to shortchange the public by paying them off at depressed market value. But Hamilton said no.

You see, he had pretty definite ideas about keeping the people's trust. After all, he was the first Secretary of the Treasury.

So he insisted that every debt be paid in full. And they were.

Over the years, it's paid off. Today, over 9½ million Americans buy U.S. Savings Bonds through their Payroll Savings Plan at work.

They know Bonds are safe, secure and pay off at a good rate of interest, 6% when held to maturity in 5 years.

Here's a tip that's guaranteed to pay off.

Take stock in America. With the specially designed Bicentennial Series E Bonds.

Don't shortchange your future.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. A — the first year. Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Her Beau's Cemetery-Bound

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in love with this boy and we plan to marry. We've been going together for six months but there's a problem. I can't discuss with anyone — least of all him. Doug is about 5-10, weighs 110 pounds and is not in good shape physically. I don't want to end up a young widow.

He eats the worst junk in the world, cares nothing about nourishing food or a balanced meal, and never gets enough rest. He was in a car accident two years ago and received multiple head injuries. The doctor told him he shouldn't drink but he gets loaded nearly every night and it worries me sick. I know this is harming him because he gets terrific headaches, has blurred vision and has trouble remembering things.

I just found out Doug takes LSD, uppers and downers, and also pot. I've begged him to take care of himself but he says he has to stay on the booze and junk to keep himself going. He's working two jobs trying to save enough money to buy a house so we can get married.

When I try to talk sense to him he says, "Stop nagging me. I'm doing all this for you." What can I do to help him see he's killing himself? — Albq., N.M.

Dear Albq.: Nothing. He'll kill himself before he'll listen to you or anyone else. Doug's physical condition is the result of his mental condition. He's self-destructive and severely unbalanced.

Your only hope is to make it clear you'll have nothing more to do with him unless he goes to a doctor and gets straightened out. If he refuses, my advice is to stop seeing him. The fact that you tolerate such erratic behavior and would actually marry such a sick guy raises many questions in my mind.

about your mental health.

Feeling Trapped

Dear Ann Landers: I am 35 years old, a housewife, and have three children. We have been married 18 years. Our oldest child is 13. My husband is European-born and does not believe that parents should go anywhere without their children. The two of us have never been out for one evening together in our entire married life.

Am I wrong to tell him I don't think this is fair to me? When I mentioned it a few times he said, "There will be plenty of time for us to go out together after the children are on their own." What about it? He's a good husband but I — Feel Trapped.

Dear Trapped: According to my arithmetic you married this man when you were 17 years old. I'm betting he is several years your senior and has always considered you more of a child than a woman.

ANN LANDERS

whichever comes first. And good luck. I hope it works.

Mom's Prying

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I walked into the kitchen and caught my mother steaming open a letter with the tea kettle. It was to my 17-year-old sister from her boyfriend.

Mom seemed embarrassed and then said, "I'm doing this because I don't trust Marie and a mother has the right to know what's going on." Is Mom right or wrong? — Miss Dunno.

Dear Miss: She's wrong. Such a mother will never know what's going on because her children won't trust her. Trust begets trust and it starts early. Your mom lost out a long time ago.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

It is virtually impossible for a wife to change her husband's thinking about family life after 18 years — especially if it's part of his cultural heritage. You might attempt a breakthrough by asking a close relative to babysit on your next wedding anniversary or birthday —

Erma Bombeck

Negative Aspect

There is one negative aspect of being a housewife that no one has ever touched upon.

We get all the diseases last. Not only that, we have to take what everyone in the family brings us. It's like being a social director in a house of pestilence.

A couple of weeks ago, my husband dragged home in the middle of the day and said, "I don't want to panic you, but I may be going to that big car pool in the sky."

"What's the matter?" "My head aches. My body is burning up. I am nauseated. My chest is tight and I can't make a fist. Call a specialist and bring me the TV Guide."

After calling his office, his sister, setting up the card table for his reading material, cancelling his dental appointment and lugging trays to his bed, I heard another call for help.

It was my son who complained, "I'm hot, feel like throwing up and am wobbly. Can I have ice cream for dessert?"

I put him to bed, called the pediatrician, took his mill over to the alternate first baseman, went to school for his homework assignment, bought a coloring book, played 30 games of Old Maid and picked up a prescription at the drugstore.

By the next morning, his brother complained his nose was stuffed up, his head hurt and could I get the electric football game out of the attic.

The traffic at the front door was like a freeway. My husband received a planter from the secretary pool. Miss Wartz brought over 30 get-well wishes from the class, and Grandma dropped by with a light pudding and folding elay.

The morning they all went back to their respective jobs, I awoke feeling lousy. "I don't want to panic you," I said to my husband, "but if I were on Marcus Welby, M.D., I could only be a one-part episode." "Nonsense," he said. "You've just got what the rest of us had, and we lived."

It wasn't fair. Everyone else had a cold that was the "real thing." My cold had no status, no respect . . . and could well have been stamped, "Made in Japan."

My good friend called me up and said, "Didn't I tell you? Someday, they will make one tombstone for housewives everywhere with a standard inscription. It will read, 'I TOLD YOU I WAS SICK.'" associate matron; William C. Barnes, associate patron; Mrs. Truman Bever, secretary; Mrs. Orval Newport, treasurer; Mrs. Franklin Williams, conductor; and Mrs. Dale Hanover Jr., associate conductor.

Installation Tonight

Other officers are being appointed by Mrs. Oxender.

Mrs. May Gale of Ypsilanti, daughter of the Oxenders, will be installing officer.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I am 23 and occasionally I get swelling of the ankles. It lasts for a few days, then goes away. Could this be related to kidney disease?

Miss E.L., Miss.

Dear Miss L.: There are many different causes for swelling of the ankles. The fact that this occurs occasionally and for short periods of time is the best indication that there is little likelihood that you have kidney disease.

Nevertheless, this should be checked out with a simple urine and blood examination.

One of the common reasons for swelling of the ankles in one your age is the retention of salt during the late half of the menstrual cycle.

The accumulation of the sodium in salt and a temporary hormone imbalance may be responsible.

Circulatory problems, drug reactions, allergic responses and the position of the feet during work may all produce temporary swelling of the ankles. A complete study will localize the cause and give you the added assurance you obviously need.

Can a non-cancerous growth ever become cancerous? Mr. E.E., Mich.

Dear Mr. E.: It is comparatively rare for a benign, non-cancerous growth to become malignant. Yet it does occasionally occur.

This is known as "malignant degeneration" of a benign tumor. It is for this reason that doctors keep all tumors under observation. When there is the slightest suspicion that a growth of any kind has changed its size, character or color, doctors prefer to have them removed. This is the safest approach. Patients are thus spared the emotional distress so often associated with tumors.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You're likely to face opposition today from a source you'd least expect. Don't be too harsh. This person has some pressures he's loath to talk about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Your time won't be your own today. One who's done you a favor is going to call on you for help. Come through the way he did for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
If you show favoritism in your little circle of friends today, you could, unknowingly wound another's feelings. Be balanced in all dealings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
While you know what you should do today, you may yield to pressures and get off course. Follow your own compass for best results.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You are hypersensitive today and could read into casual remarks much more than the speaker intends. Ignore what you think you hear.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
This is the day you must look a gift horse in the mouth. What you feel someone is doing for you may be just a ploy to further his ends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You and your mate will be on different wavelengths today. Guard against embarrassing another by airing your differences in front of her.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Time and energy are not sufficient to permit you to accomplish all the tasks you've set today. Don't bite off more than you can chew and choke on it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Avoid social functions today which include people whose company you don't enjoy. You'll say something sharp to them, then wish you'd bit your tongue.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You're an eager beaver to wrap up a deal that's been pending. You're not a good finisher, today. You may talk too much and lose everything.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Don't challenge a friend today on an issue on which he has very strong opinions. His feelings are already close to the surface. You could bring them to a boil.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Keep on top of obligations. You may wind up with a red face if others have to remind you of what is due them.

Even if Holmes had elected to pass his 12-high-card points he would have wound up in three notrump.

As anyone can see a spade lead and heart return would beat him two tricks. But no one can really find fault with Scurry's choice of a heart. After a heart lead it would have been a simple matter for the great detective to make four odd by means of successful diamond finesses, but he managed to wind up one in the soup. It seems that Scurry led his deuce of hearts instead of the conventional fourth. Best Holmes' queen covered East's 10 and he led a club to dummy's king. East took her ace and led back the five of hearts.

Holmes took his ace and went into deep thought. That five could have been the lowest from an original holding of jack-10-8-5. In that case the deuce of hearts would have been from King-4-3-2. Holmes decided that was the case so he led a spade to knock out that ace and insure his contract against the expected 4-4 heart break.

Scurry's little bit of deception had paid big dividends.

Economy Marching Away From Year-Long Slump

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government figures show that the nation's industry marched solidly away from recession in September but that welfare costs rose 20 per cent during the last fiscal year because of the recession.

The Federal Reserve Board said Thursday that the output of mines, factories and utilities increased 1.8 per cent in September, the fifth consecutive monthly increase and the largest gain since November 1964, when the advance was 2.8 per cent. The September increase was the biggest one-month jump in production in nearly 11 years.

More production by industry means more jobs for Americans, and the production report released Thursday clearly was part of the "very encouraging" economic news predicted Wednesday by President Ford.

Additional good economic news is expected Monday when the Commerce Department will report a big increase in economic output during the third quarter, as measured by the Gross National Product.

However, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Thursday that welfare expenditures increased 20 per cent during the 1975 fiscal year to a total of $22.5 billion.

Nearly $13 billion of the total was for medical care for the poor.

The number of persons receiving benefits under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program increased 2.1 per cent to an average of nearly 11.1 million, of whom eight million were dependent children. But an HEW official, John A. Svahn, said the number of persons on AFDC rolls declined slightly in May and June, probably in part because of the improving economy.

James L. Pate, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said Thursday the GNP increased at least 9-10 per cent and possibly more at an annual rate, during the July through September period.

But he said the encouraging figures may lead people to believe things are better than they are — "I'm afraid that in some respects these figures are overstating the strength of the recovery."

Pate said he believes the real growth rate in the economy will slow to about 7 per cent in the fourth quarter and slow even more during 1976.

In its report on industrial production, the Federal Reserve Board said the gains were widespread across the economy in September, with increases in autos, business equipment, household appliances, steel, textiles, paper, chemical materials and power.

Unguarded Ford Limo Reported In Detroit?

DETROIT (AP) — Although the Secret Service is supposed to be keeping constant watch over President Ford's limousine while it is being repaired, a car "identical" to the auto was found unguarded Thursday, a Detroit newspaper said today.

The Detroit Free Press said one of its reporters walked into an unguarded building at a Ford Motor Co. complex in suburban Livonia and spotted a long black limousine with its right front fender removed and a long scratch along its right side.

The Free Press said the car had Washington, D.C. license plates and was "identical to photographs of the President's Lincoln."

The Secret Service confirmed the 2½-ton car was brought into a Ford Motor Co. body shop for repairs Thursday following a wreck which tore some chrome off the $500,000 vehicle and left it with a dented fender.

The auto was flown to Detroit Metropolitan Airport aboard an Air Force transport, unloaded at the American Airlines hanger and driven to the Ford Transmission Plant complex in Livonia, the Secret Service said.

The limousine will be repaired by Ford Motor's special vehicle engineering section and flown back to Washington as soon as possible, the Secret Service said.

Ford Motor Co. officials declined to divulge the car's exact location.

Bill Pulls Stinger From Some Tickets

By JIM KEEGSTRA
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Motorists who are stopped by police for having defective taillights or other faulty equipment could avoid court fines under a "sick car" bill approved Thursday by the House.

The bill, passed 88-1 and returned to the Senate, would allow drivers cited for defective equipment to avoid fines as long as they get to the repair shop before their scheduled court appearance.

The bill says the motorist must submit some kind of proof to law enforcement officials that the equipment has been repaired.

The single opponent to the bill was Rep. Stephen Montsma, D-Grand Rapids, who said the legislation would kill the incentive for owners to repair cars before being caught and given a citation.

"Defective equipment on a car violates the law the same way speeding does," Montsma said.

In other legislative business, the House delayed until Dec. 2 a vote on doubling Detroit's nonresident income tax. The House bill would raise the nonresident tax rate from 0.5 per cent to 1 per cent and net the financially troubled city an estimated $8 million yearly.

Placed in position for final House passage is a bill to refund state diesel fuel taxes to interstate bus companies.

Refunds would help the 12 companies now running buses between Michigan cities continue to provide "public transportation for the convenience of our citizens," said Rep. George Montgomery, House Taxation Committee chairman.

The firms operate at a slight loss and could use the estimated $170,000-a-year refund, said Montgomery, D-Detroit.

Business within a city and run by that city are exempt from the seven-cent-a-gallon diesel tax. The one privately owned city busline in Michigan now gets two cents of the tax refunded.

The bill would raise that refund to the full tax rate and extend it to interstate buslines.

An amendment to raise the tax from seven cents to equal the gasoline tax rate of nine cents was defeated by the House.

Meanwhile, House Republicans scheduled a day-long "information and strategy caucus" today. Rep. Dennis Cawthorne of Manistee, leader of the minority party in the House, said the GOP gathering will hear from campaign chair-

Yank, 2 Danes Win Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Three nuclear scientists — an American and two Danes — were named today as co-winners of the 1975 Nobel prize for physics.

They were James Rainwater, 57, of Columbia University;

Aage Bohr, 53, whose father, Niels Bohr, was one of the founders of modern nuclear physics; and Bohr's collaborator, Benjamin Mottelson, 49.

The Swedish Academy of Science awarded the three nuclear scientists equal shares of the $143,000 prize, citing them for "the discovery of the connection between collective motion and particle motion in atomic nuclei and the development of the theory of the structure of the atomic nucleus based on this connection."

Rainwater, 57, is the fifth American to win a 1975 Nobel prize. On Tuesday, economist Tjalling C. Koopmans of Yale University was named joint winner of the award in economics with Leonid Kantorovich of the Soviet Union, and, on Thursday, the award in medicine and physiology was announced for David Baltimore of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Howard Temin of the University of Wisconsin and Renato Dulbecco, who works at a cancer laboratory in London.

Andrei Sakharov, the Soviet nuclear physicist and leader in the fight for civil rights in the Soviet Union, was awarded the peace prize on Oct. 9.

The announcement of the physics award said Rainwater was the first to present a solution to the problems concerning the properties of certain nuclear matter in a brief paper published in April 1950. It concerned the interplay between nucleons.

Bohr, working in Copenhagen at the Niels Bohr Institute but at that time visiting Columbia University, had independently of Rainwater been thinking along the same lines, the statement continued.

Ohioan Wins $200,000

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A 58-year-old Toledo man says he'll take his wife to Hawaii with the $200,000 he won Thursday in the weekly Michigan Lottery drawing.

Woodrow Hoover, 58, is retired from the Dura Corp. He and his wife, Wanda, have two children.

Elva DeLong, a sewing machine operator from Mount Clemens, also plans to go to Hawaii with the $25,000 prize money she won. She is a widow with three children.

Winning $10,000 each in the drawing were Mary Izzo of Hemlock, a part-time barmaid in Saginaw; George Macior of Royal Oak, a retiree; and Hiram See Jr. of Cokewar, a power plant supervisor with the Coldwater Board of Public Works.

Petoskey Store Closing Dec. 19

PETOSKEY, Mich. (AP) — The W.T. Grant store in Petoskey has been notified that it will close on Dec. 19, store Manager Jerry Stimpson says. Stimpson said he was surprised at the notice because less than two weeks ago Grant officials said all company stores east of the Mississippi River would be unaffected by a petition to reorganize under bankruptcy laws. The Petoskey store employs 50 persons, making it one of Petoskey's largest retailers.

South Haven Area Sewage Is Topic

SOUTH HAVEN — Officials from the City of South Haven and the townships of Casco and South Haven met in joint session last night to renew long-stalled discussions on the feasibility of an area sewage disposal plan.

The city and two townships have been ordered by the Department of Natural Resources to establish a plan involving all three units of government if they expect to receive any state and federal public works monies.

The City of South Haven and South Haven township had been negotiating for nearly two years on an agreement to extend the city's sewer lines into the township, but talks ended earlier this year after it was revealed by a state official that the city's disposal plant has a more limited capacity than engineers had told the city.

All three governmental units have undertaken feasibility studies, the city to determine if its system can handle additional effluent and the townships to designate what parts of their units could be practically served.

The officials agreed last night that each unit of government would designate representatives to meet with the engineering firms who are conducting the studies.

Ray Holden, spokesman for Alpha Engineering company of South Haven, predicted that the state would mandate joint projects of the governmental units instead of allowing individual systems.

"We are one community no matter how you look at it," Holden said.

It was reported last night that there would not be any advantage in the city becoming the lead applicant for state and federal funding of the proposed work.

City Manager Albert Pierce had asked South Haven township officials to consider transferring its lead-applicant status to the city, citing the city's ability to follow through on the work because of its administrative staff.

Smut Charges Are Dismissed

Charges were dismissed yesterday against a 19-year-old projectionist who was showing a "blue movie" when the Berry theater at Berrien Springs was raided by officers from three police agencies March 14.

Released in Berrien Fifth District court was Frank P. Griffin, 19, of Eau Claire, who was working his first night on the job when the movie house was raided.

In the projector that night was "Portrait," a film which, according to the warrant, "contains descriptions, depictions, representations and acts of sexual matters and sexual conduct."

Griffin and theater manager Elmer Danes, 36, were charged with violation of the village anti-pornography ordinance.

Danes later pleaded no contest and was sentenced to three days in jail, fined $200 and placed on one-year probation.

The charge against Griffin was dismissed yesterday because "we've accomplished our purpose, and that was to close the pornographic theater," said Edgar Kesterke, president of the village council. The decision to drop the charge was made by him and the council.

According to District Judge John T. Hammond, who granted the dismissal, briefs filed by both sides in connection with the case raised "substantial" and interesting questions about the legality of the ordinance.

Griffin's attorney, Ronald Moses, of Buchanan, argued that the ordinance is in violation of "liberty of speech." Further, he wrote, the ordinance is vague and its reliance upon "contemporary standards" as a judge of the obscene is not constitu-

Kesterke said that although the Berry is still open, its owner has stopped showing "pornographic" films.

Bandits Refuse $1, Take Truck

A bread truck driver carrying only $1 was left tied inside an Eau Claire supermarket early today by two bandits who declined to take his dollar but drove away in his truck.

The truck was found abandoned later.

Berrien sheriff's Sgt. Robert Greer said the holdup occurred about 4:20 a.m. at Harding's Market, Main street. Larry Clem, 236 Hinchman road, Baroda, a driver for Grocers Baking company, Fairplain, was tied up for about an hour before being released. He was unhurt.

State police tracking dogs searched this morning in an area around Park road near Pipestone road where the bandits left the truck, about 2½ miles from the store.

Clem told sheriff's officers he had just opened the store to make a delivery when the two men, described as white, wearing ski masks and green army jackets, held a shotgun on him and demanded money. Clem said he only had $1 and the bandits wouldn't take it.

Greer said Clem was able to attract the attention of an Eau Claire village street sweeper, Ron Karn, Sr., when he whistled and broke a glass door with his feet about 5:20 a.m.

Nothing appeared to be missing from either the store or the bakery truck, but Greer said the truck keys were taken.

Bangor Group Seeks Recall Of Five On School Board

BANGOR — A citizens group here said it plans to begin canvassing the district today with petitions seeking the recall of five members of the Bangor school board.

John Rathbun, the group's treasurer, said the group was formed following Monday's school board meeting "at which many questions were asked of the school board and very few meaningful answers were given."

Board members the group is seeking to recall include Donald Piper, Forest Gough, Fred Waite, Richard Kroegel and Dr.

Joseph Cooper.

Paul French, who is chairman of the recall group, also headed another committee which made a series of five recommendations to the board in September, but he said the two groups are entirely separate.

French said petitions filed in September seeking the recall of Piper, the board president, had been rejected because of what he said had been described as faulty wording.

A school spokesman this morning said however that the petitions were still being checked for valid signatures.

French said the recall is being sought because the five board members failed to fully support the group's recommendations.

The recommendations were that the board ask for the resignation of Supt. Howard Beyer; that any employment opportunities with the district be advertised for 15 days prior to hiring; that the board review the policy of hiring family members of the board and administration; that a business manager be hired; and that a budget of $1,769,517 be adopted and most program cuts caused by the defeat of the 3-mill tax levy be reinstated.

Mrs. Peggy Phillips and Otto Watkins, the remaining two school board members were also members of the committee which made the recommendations.

On Monday, the board adopted an actual operation budget of $1,838,920, $70,403 more than the committee had recommended.

KING HASSAN II
He'll lead march

'Peaceful' Invasion Planned By Morocco

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Recruiting began today for a march of 350,000 unarmed Moroccan civilians into the Spanish Sahara to reinforce their government's claim to the northern part of the disputed territory and its rich phosphate deposits.

Announcing the "peaceful" invasion, King Hassan II said in a broadcast Thursday night that he would lead the columns into Morocco's southern neighbor.

The king did not indicate when the walk would begin, but officials said preparations — particularly provision of drinking water — would take several weeks at least.

Hassan announced the march a few hours after the International Court of Justice in an advisory, nonbinding opinion, said Morocco and Mauritania, the Spanish Sahara's neighbor on the east and south, had links to the desert territory's nomadic tribes when Spain took it in 1884.

But the court said it could not recognize Moroccan and Mauritanian claims to sovereignty over the territory itself, and that it had no evidence to invalidate the Spanish and Algerian proposal for the colony's 80,000 inhabitants to decide their future in a referendum.

The Spanish government viewed the ruling as an endorsement of its referendum proposal. There was no immediate reaction from Algeria or Mauritania.

The 105,000-square-mile stretch of barren Atlantic coastline contains one of the world's largest deposits of phosphate. Morocco, already the world's largest exporter of phosphate, claims the northern part and Mauritania the eastern and southern.

Algeria has 18 miles of border with the Spanish Sahara. Moroccan officials contend that the Algerians want a weak independent state in the hope of obtaining a corridor to the Atlantic, but the Algerians insist they are interested only in the principle of self-determination for the people.

Both Morocco and Algeria have moved sizable troop units to the borders of the Spanish colony, and government sources in Madrid said the 15,000 Spanish troops would fight if the Moroccan army invaded.

Hassan said all the marchers would be unarmed "since we do not want war with Spain," and "no tyrant, not even one totally devoid of faith would dare to give an order to fire on 350,000 persons without arms." He said the Moroccan army would not intervene if Spanish forces attacked the marchers, but "if we meet any forces other than Spanish forces, we will resort to self-defense."

However, Moroccan officials said the marchers would cross the border in the region of Tazaya, on the coast 300 miles west of Algerian territory.

Federal Workers To Pay More For 'Blues'

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blue Cross-Blue Shield says rates charged to some six million federal workers, who make up the largest single employee group covered by the plan, will spiral by about 35 per cent Jan. 1. The increase will mean that a federal employee now paying an average of $154 per year for comprehensive coverage of his family will find his premiums increased to $208 next year.

"The use has been very high in the past year and costs continue to rise," Blue Cross spokesman J. S. Nagelschmidt said Thursday night in explaining the sharp boost in rates to federal workers and dependents. In the last year, Blue Cross-Blue Shield collected about $900 million in premiums for protection of federal workers and their families. The workers pay 40 per cent, the federal treasury the rest.

But Nagelschmidt said the hospital and medical insurance plans took a loss from government coverage and that the projected increase would recoup that deficit and meet anticipated rises in medical costs.

Congress Kills Computer Funds; Fears 'Big Brother'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $62-million deal to buy computers for the Agriculture Department has been killed after congressional criticism that it might lead to federal snooping into the private lives of farmers and other citizens.

The computer plan was scuttled after Congress a week ago approved a $10.8 billion department appropriations bill, but reduced a "working capital" fund intended to help pay for the computers.

Joseph R. Wright Jr., assistant secretary of agriculture for administration, said Thursday that he had notified three computer companies — final bidders on the contract — that the project was canceled. Delivery of the computers was to have begun in December.

Identical letters to the companies said the cancellations were a result of Congress reducing the working capital fund.

Until now, there has been no limit on the fund. But in looking over Agriculture appropriations, Congress fixed an initial bid of $47 million. That was cut to $37 million by House-Senate conferees, a level officials said is too small to begin paying for the new computers.

Wright said on Thursday that the limit ordered by Congress will not prevent individual Agriculture agencies from buying new computers to keep pace with rising demands in such programs as rural housing and timber sales.

Wright said costs would be "substantially more" than $62 million because of the delay and because Agriculture cannot now buy new computers in a one-shot deal.

The department began planning a centralized computer network several years ago, initially to keep track of the mountain of information then involved in federal farm programs for controlling crops.

When the General Services Administration, the government's procurement agency, got wind of the plan, it developed a much more ambitious blueprint for a nationwide computer network called FEDNET. It ultimately was scrapped as a result of congressional concern that it posed a serious threat to the privacy of individuals.

A report last June by the General Accounting Office, a watchdog agency of Congress, reviewed Agriculture's role in the nationwide plan and said the department should reconsider its computer buying program. The GAO said Congress became concerned about the USDA computer because it "could pose a serious threat to the privacy of individuals."

That theme was voiced by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., and others. Wright said Agriculture's plan "was left with the stigma of the FEDNET system" and has become an emotional issue for many critics.

The accounting office said earlier that Agriculture's plan would cost $398 million over eight years. Wright said that was "way, way off" the mark. Under the centralized procedure, now canceled, Wright said the total would be about $270 million over eight years.

He said Agriculture's existing computers cost $21 million a year to operate, plus another $30 million to $35 million borne by agencies for programming, analysis and other support functions.

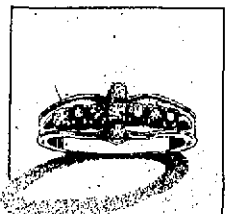

He said overloads are piling up now at the department's computer centers and it appears "we're going to have checks from Farmers Home stacking up in St. Louis in about four months and timber receipts in Fort Collins (Colo.) in six months."

Fluoridation Vote Rejected In Watervliet

WATERVLLET — Mayor Robert Flaherty said last night the Watervliet city commission will take no action to put a controversial water fluoridation issue on the city's Nov. 4 election ballot.

Flaherty said the commission's position was based on a report from City Atty. F. A. (Mike) Jones that it is now too late to get an issue on the ballot and that a straw vote on the issue would have little practical effect because of state law.

In comments during the city commission meeting, the mayor said any action to put fluoridation up for a special election will have to be initiated by a citizen petition drive.

Jones, Flaherty said, had reported that the deadline for a city to exempt itself from state-required fluoridation of water was July 18, 1973.

The city did not exempt itself from fluoridation prior to that time, Flaherty said Jones reported.

Earlier this month, Flaherty had indicated he would ask the commission to put the issue on a ballot for a "straw vote" that would not be binding on the city commission. 332 South Main street had asked the commission to put fluoridation on the Nov. 4 ballot.

City officials have said that fluoridation is tied to a low interest $355,000 federal loan for improvements to the city water system. Improvements are still under construction.

In other action last night, the city commission formally approved a three-year agreement creating a board that will oversee operation of emergency ambulance service.

The same agreement was approved Tuesday by Watervliet township board. The ambulance operation provides service for the city and the township.

Formation of an ambulance service sponsored and financed by the city and township became necessary after a Watervliet funeral home earlier this year dropped an ambulance service it had provided for some years.

The agreement names a six-member board to oversee the service.

Representing the city will be Commissioners William Fizzell and Richard Fox and resident Al Kuiper.

Township representatives are Township Clerk Barbara Tyler, Township Treasurer Eleanor Krell and township resident Mary Tatter.

The board's first duty will be to negotiate a contract with STAT ambulance service which has been operating in the city on a verbal agreement for the last four months.

The city commission also transferred $10,000 from a federal revenue sharing fund to pay for ambulance operations through February, 1976.

Car-Bike Crash Kills Allegan Boy

WAYLAND — A 10-year-old boy was killed last night when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car in Allegan county's Dorris township, according to state police at the Troopers said a car driven by Melvin Stoepker, 34, 4129 26th street, struck the bicycle about 7:30 p.m. on 142nd avenue near 21st street.

Both the car and the bicycle were westbound on the street. The bicycle was in the right hand lane. Stoepker told police he did not see the bicycle before the collision, troopers said.

Stoepker was not charged pending a further investigation, troopers said.

Berrien To Face Record Budget over by the county, which represented an increase of $106,000 in CETA-funded programs.

Another big increase — $90,000 — came in the area of jail and turnkey in the sheriff's department.

Committee members cited a constantly increasing prisoner population as part of the reason for the jump, and noted the cost of food has risen $35,000 since this year's budget.

A related increase came in jail inmate rehabilitation, which increased from $21,400 to $36,000 because the program this year was on a 50-50 basis with the state and next year the county will foot the entire bill.

Programs mandated by the state account for the largest percentage of increase in the budget, finance committee members stressed. The mental health section rose from $200,000 to $400,000 for treatment and institutionalization of people committed at county expense, and the child care budget jumped from $418,000 to $554,000.

"It's a state mandate that we have to pay it — no matter what the cost," Wendzel exclaimed.

Another related increase came in juvenile court because of state requirements to furnish court-appointed attorneys for juveniles charged with crimes.

That department's budget climbed $13,000 to $341,200.

Raises for elected officials and department heads come from the contingencies fund, and Stacey noted: "There likely will be raises for all employees."

Raises, however, are up to the administration committee.

Wendzel pointed out that if the CETA program should expire, wages for some of the employees who remain will have to come from contingencies, as well as an increase in the county pension program.

But if the contingencies fund is used up, nothing else will be spent, according to the finance committee. "Berrien county will not deficit finance," Stacey stressed.

Wendzel also said the committee hoped officials and department heads would only spend money "as needed" to keep the budget in line.

But he noted the amount set aside for the county's share of employee retirement — $205,000 — "is way, way too low." He said state and federal requirements have increased the pension program and "a lot will have to come from contingencies."

Sums budgeted for the various departments and functions of the county are:

Board of commissioners, $188,600.

Muslim Inmates Warring

Matthews, 23, of Bloomfield, N.J., sentenced to 10 years on a sodomy charge.

Walton was in critical condition at St. Francis Medical Center early today. Coy, Matthews and Chavies were listed in guarded condition at Mercer Hospital, and Calloway was in fair condition at Helene Fuld Hospital. Dozier was treated and released from Helene Fuld.

The dead inmate was identified as Cleophas Mayres, 33, of Hillside, N.J. He was serving a life sentence for a Newark murder that one law enforcement source said had been connected to a feud between Shabazz followers and Muslim dissidents.

A St. Francis spokesman said Mayres was dead at the scene of multiple stab wounds.

"It is our belief that the incident took place as part of an internal power struggle among inmates," said Robert Mulcahy, deputy state commissioner of investigations and agencies.

Mulcahy said all 843 prison inmates were locked in their cells pending a preliminary investigation. No charges were filed against any inmates in connection with the attack.

Gov. Brendan T. Byrne said Anne Klein, state commissioner of institutions and agencies, told him members of the different Muslim sects had been separated inside the prison for several months but were gradually being returned to the general prison population.

The stabbings took place during a black studies class in a prison classroom just a few doors from the Star Of Islam mosque, the prison's orthodox Muslim organization.

Prison Corrections Capt. Glenn Simmons said no guards were injured.

Stanley Samuelson, prison director of professional services, said he arrived moments after the attack and was told that other inmates had helped disarm the assailants.

Shabazz's Nation of Islam was a traditional Muslim group that recognized Elijah Muhammad as a deity. The New World of Islam considered Muhammad only a prophet.

Mr. Crump was born in Mississippi and had resided in Covert 20 years, coming from Detroit. He was a member of Covert First Baptist church.

Surviving are a son, Edward C. Hinz and a daughter, Miss Mabel Hinz, both of South Haven. Her husband, Edward Hinz, preceded her in death in 1971.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Florin funeral home, South Haven, where friends may call from 7 until 9 this evening. Burial will be in Chambers cemetery.

NYC Near Financial Collapse

of default came unexpectedly Thursday, with the sudden unravelling of a complex $2.3 billion plan the state government had put together a month ago to keep New York solvent through November.

A crucial element in that plan was the investment of $150 million in funds from the city teachers' retirement system in bonds of the Municipal Assistance Corp. (MAC), which was to use them to refinance part of the city's massive debt.

Complaining publicly that other pension funds had not been tapped as much as theirs, the United Federation of Teachers refused repeated requests from Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Abraham Beame to commit the funds.

Annexations By Area Cities Are Placed In Doubt

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state is considering seeking Supreme Court review of a lower court decision that casts clouds over some two dozen municipal annexations since 1970 as well as annexation proposals still before the state boundary commission. Included would be Bridgman's effort to annex part of the $900 million nuclear power plant and other property from Lake township.

The ruling which may be questioned is a state Court of Appeals decision which said a 1970 law giving the state Boundary Commission authority to approve annexation of areas containing fewer than 100 people is unconstitutional. Milton Firestone, an assistant state attorney general, said the attorney general's office would prepare a recommendation for the boundary commission on how to proceed with pending cases in view of the ruling.

"At this point, we're not in a position to make a recommendation, however," Firestone said. He said the state might take the decision to the supreme court of seek new legislation to correct the issue.

The boundary commission has held a two-part public hearing on Bridgman's bid to annex the tax-rich land and was expected to issue a decision sometime early next year.

According to the Bridgman officials, the property is needed to insure continued operation and growth of the city. Township officials have labeled the move as a tax grab and have vowed to fight the effort to the end, if necessary.

The boundary commission had used that law to approve about 24 annexations in the past five years.

Among cities that could be affected are Midland, Ann Arbor, Coldwater, Brighton, St. Joseph, Bridgman, Novi, Buchanan, Hudsonville, Inland City, Rochester and Northville.

In the St. Joseph case, the boundary commission ruled in 1973 that about 10 acres of St. Joseph township, out of a 35-acre request, would be annexed to the city, the decision was appealed by St. Joseph township and is still pending in the courts.

Also in 1973, the commission approved annexation of part of a subdivision in Buchanan township to Buchanan city.

The appeals court ruling came on a suit by Midland Township against the boundary commission and the City of Midland. The action sought to prevent the city from annexing a valuable 319-acre Consumers Power Co. nuclear plant site.

The appeals court ruling came on a suit by Midland Township against the boundary commission and the City of Midland. The action sought to prevent the city from annexing a valuable 319-acre Consumers Power Co. nuclear plant site.

When it is completed in the early 1980s, the power plant will have an estimated value of $1.4 billion, or a taxable value of about $700 million, Wirth said. Having the plant inside the city would almost double Midland's current valuation of $473 million, he said.

Midland began collecting taxes on the site this year and has put about $157,000 in a special escrow fund pending the outcome of the case, he said.

The appeals court upheld a decision by Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Donald Reising that the legislature made errors in drafting the 1970 law purporting to give the boundary commission authority over annexations.

The appeals court said titles of Michigan laws must clearly reflect the contents of those laws. The title of the 1970 act made it clear that certain annexation powers were being withdrawn from Home Rule cities but not that the powers were being transferred to the boundary commission, the appeals court said.

In addition, the 1970 law purported to amend the Home Rule Cities Act. Actually, the appeals court said, it assigned additional functions, duties and procedures to the boundary commission, which is covered in a separate act. This violated the constitutional provision that an act which is passed for one stated purpose cannot be used for the unstated purpose of amending another act.

The questionable law stemmed from a compromise worked out between township and municipal forces in 1970, capital sources said.

The Michigan Municipal League offered a bill to amend the 1968 Boundary Commission Act which explicitly would have allowed the boundary commission to order annexations of property with 100 or fewer residents. At the same time, the Michigan Townships Association had a bill on the House floor to amend the Home Rule Cities Act to give persons in the part of a township not being annexed a veto over the proposed acquisition.

To avoid a possible deadlock, both sides compromised, agreeing to amend the Home Rule Cities Act to give the commission power to order annexation using the above population figure. If there were more than 100 people in the area, the township could file a petition for an election to veto the annexation, capital sources said.

South Vietnam's Reds Tightening Noose On Foes

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence reports indicate that repressive measures against dissidents in South Vietnam are more intense now than at any time since the Communist takeover almost six months ago.

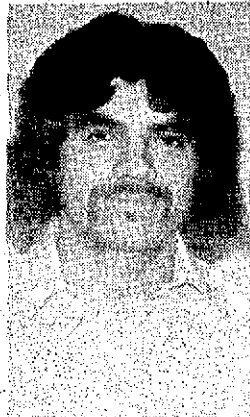

According to American officials, a tightening of Communist control is believed to be the explanation for increasing reports that persons associated with the U.S.-backed regime have disappeared.

Officials here have no clue as to how many persons have been affected by the reported crackdown. But they say there has been a marked increase over the past month in reports of executions, of dissidents killed in "automobile accidents" and of persons not returning from Communist re-education classes.

There were widespread fears here last April that the Communist takeover would lead to a "bloodbath" against anti-Communist dissidents. Soon after the collapse of the regime, American officials said they were surprised at the apparent tolerance of the new regime.

This was in sharp contrast to the situation in Cambodia where, according to reports, thousands died as the new Khmer Rouge government evacuated cities and large towns and people were marched, often at gunpoint, into the countryside.

"There is no doubt control has been tightened in South Vietnam," one senior U.S. official said. One reason for this may be found in continued resistance to the regime by elements of former President Nguyen Van Thieu's army, he said.

He said one possible explanation for the delay in the start of the reported crackdown is that the Vietnamese government had more massive problems than the Cambodian Communists in consolidating its power. This is partially attributable to the fact that South Vietnam's population is more than three times that of Cambodia.

Although South Vietnam officially is listed as a separate state, U.S. officials say the country largely is under North Vietnamese control.

These sources said that few if any of the more than 100,000 North Vietnamese troops stationed in South Vietnam have returned home since April and that the country is being run by North Vietnamese military committees in Saigon.

One official said there is little evidence that the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, the indigenous Communist force in that country, has much influence over the government.

He said the activities of PRG officials largely are restricted to defending South Vietnam's interests in international organizations.

TOUGHER TRANSPORT RULES? Radioactive Wastes Eyed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A tough bill regulating transportation of radioactive wastes is being pushed by a small group of legislators led by Rep. David Bonior.

"If nothing else, this will show the federal government that their existing standards are totally inadequate," said Rep. Bonior, D-Mount Clemens. Bonior is the sponsor of the bill, which would set strict state regulations on shipment of radioactive wastes and medicinal materials in Michigan.

At the first of three hearings, an official of the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM) said if a lead and steel cask carrying radioactive cesium were to burst during a truck accident in Lansing, over 1,000 persons would die from radiation poisoning.

Marion Anderson, PIRGIM's project director, also told a special House subcommittee on radioactive waste transportation that the contaminated land would be "unfit for habitation for fourteen years." More people would die in densely populated cities, she said.

"Nothing can fully protect the public from these dangerous and deadly substances," she said. "But the passage of this legislation would remedy some of the worst abuses and mitigate the dangers to the public."

Bonior's bill is one of several that will be introduced this session to squelch nuclear dangers in the state. It is the one several Democratic lawmakers have singled out for special handling.

The bill would require licensing of transport companies by a special commission, special training for drivers, special routes and times for transportation and emergency warning devices and programs to deal quickly with accidental emissions.

Bonior said a bill to be introduced by Rep. Lynn John Dahl, D-East Lansing, which would bar construction of nuclear power plants for five years, is not likely to be passed now. "I'm concerned with realistic politics right now," said Bonior.

Ms. Anderson charged the casks used to transport materials are not adequately tested by the Atomic Energy Commission. She also said drivers are given no special training and often are not told exactly what they're carrying.

She also charged that trucks often drive carelessly through densely populated areas in bad weather and said trucks are not clearly marked as carrying radioactive matter.

She said truckers carry no device to warn them of radiation leakage and claimed some casks have been delivered and radiation found on the outside, indicating leakage took place.

The state Department of Public Health, which estimates the bill would cost the state $100,000, has asked state Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley to determine if Michigan can legally preempt federal regulations on control of radioactive materials.

Move Now' Young Tells Workers

DETROIT (AP) — No grace period will be granted to permit city employees living outside the city limits to move inside before they are fired, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young said Thursday.

"I don't know how much warning you need for an ordinance that's been on the books for 100 years," Young said. "It's not as if we've crept up on somebody in the dead of night. This is no surprise. ... The deadline is when we catch them."

The mayor said he did not know when the first non-resident employees would be fired but, he said investigations are being conducted.

An official for Police Chief Philip Tannian said Thursday no date has been set for the resumption of police trial board action against police officers who live outside the city.

The residency requirement went to arbitration last February after the Michigan Supreme Court ruled it was legal, but subject to collective bargaining.

The police department's challenge to the requirement was rejected last month by a labor arbitrator.

MARK ANNIVERSARY
WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Ford have marked their 27th wedding anniversary with a buffet dinner at the White House for 34 longtime friends.

Shipwreck Bill In House

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to preserve historically valuable Great Lakes shipwrecks has been placed in position for state House consideration. If approved, it would require salvagers to get permits from the state Department of Natural Resources before removing "abandoned property of historical value" from state-owned parts of Lake St. Clair and the Great Lakes.

Over 5,000 shipwrecks are thought to be scattered about the Great Lakes. A Michigan State University search found about 80 wrecks, mainly from the late 1800s and early 1900s. In just a 150-square-mile area near Thunder Bay. Under the measure, the permits must also be approved by the Department of State.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Thomas Anderson, D-Southgate, House Conservation Committee chairman, says objects more than 50 years old have historical value.

State Unveils 3 US-31 Alternates

PROPOSED US-31 ALTERNATES: Map shows series of alternate courses under consideration by state highway department for route of proposed US-31 freeway from Walton road in Niles township to I-94 and I-194 junction, east of Benton Harbor. Information on alternate routes will be available for public inspection at Oronoko township hall, Tuesday, Oct. 28, from 1 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Total of three alternates are now being proposed, two west and one east of Berrien Springs. Alternates are also proposed west and east of Sodus, and between Napier and Highland avenues in Benton township. Dots indicate proposed interchanges. Department expects to have its decision on final alignment by end of next summer.

Smashup Hurts Bridgman Driver

A 79-year-old Bridgman driver was hospitalized after a two-car collision Thursday on Cleveland avenue at Lemon Creek road, Baroda township, Berrien sheriff's officers said.

Leroy Hayes Knibb, Lake street, was listed in "good" condition today at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, where he was admitted for observation with head and facial cuts.

Lt. Douglas Tiefenbach said the accident occurred shortly before 5 p.m. The driver of the other car was not hurt and was identified as Daniel Richard Clark, 17, route 2, Gardner road, Buchanan. Lt. Tiefenbach said Knibb was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Three people, all passengers, were injured in another two-car accident Thursday investigated by Benton Harbor police.

Police said cars driven by Michael C. Clayton, 16, of 2088 East Empire avenue, Benton township, and Brenda Ann Dickinson, 19, of 332 Lincoln avenue, Benton Harbor, collided at the intersection of Union street and Empire avenue about 5 p.m.

The injured, all of whom sought their own treatment, were identified as George Turney, 17, of 1300 Superior street, Benton township, a passenger in the Clayton auto; and Inez McCall, 44, of 305 South Crystal avenue and Carolyn McCall, 21, of 1946 East Empire avenue, both of Benton township and passengers in the Dickinson car.

Brenda Dickinson was cited for disregarding a stop sign.

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Information on alternate alignments for the proposed relocation of US-31 in Berrien county will be available for public inspection at Oronoko township hall, Tuesday, Oct. 28, according to the department of state highways and transportation.

Detailed descriptions of three alternate alignments, maps and other pertinent information will be available from 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. The Oronoko township hall is located on Snow road, one-quarter mile southwest of Berrien Springs.

Representatives of the department will be present to answer questions or discuss the alternate alignments with interested persons. The project area is from Matthew road, northwest of Niles, north to I-94, east of Benton Harbor.

"This informational session is to provide all interested parties the opportunity to obtain an update on the status of our route location study for the proposed relocation of US-31 in Berrien county," John P. Woodford, department director, said. "As the study progresses, a formal alignment and design public hearing will be scheduled sometime next year."

Last year, highway and transportation officials from Michigan and Indiana worked out a tentative timetable for construction of a new US-31 freeway from South Bend to I-94 near Benton Harbor.

Michigan's portion from the state line to I-94 is 31 miles long and is estimated to cost $100 million. Construction will be started next year on the southern portion, with additional segments scheduled to start in 1977, 1978 and 1979.

Industrial Expansion Law Is Working Well In Area

By LARRY MCINTYRE
Staff Writer

A 15-month-old law passed by the state legislature as an incentive to industrial expansion is proving to be successful beyond its expectations in southwestern Michigan and other parts of the state as well.

Howard Cross, an economist and deputy director of the state commerce department's office of economic expansion, said last week that response has been much greater than his office expected during the first year the plant rehabilitation act of 1974 was in effect.

He pointed to the fact that in the law's first year of existence when it was not well known, 86 industries applied for tax breaks made possible by the law for almost a half-billion dollars of industrial expansion.

Eleven of the 86 applications received by the state tax commission for industrial facilities exemption certificates have come from Berrien, Allegan and Van Buren counties. Those 11 applications, nine from Berrien alone, represent $5,673,804 of industrial expansion. Van Buren and Allegan each have one application.

"We were able to obtain that kind of investment in a year of practically no investment. That portends a good future for Michigan in terms of industrial expansion," Cross said.

The state tax commission is gearing for an increasing number of applications it expects to receive now that the provisions of the law are becoming more understood by businesses, he said.

The law, which took effect on July 9, 1974, allows industrial firms to take a 12-year, 50 per cent waiver on property taxes which would otherwise have to be paid in full on the taxable value of the new physical plant facilities and a 100 per cent waiver for 12 years on the tax portion of the physical rehabilitation costs of existing facilities.

Five of nine applications from Berrien county have already been approved, said Cross.

The approved applications represent 124 new jobs, he said, and will involve $2,869,308 in construction of industrial facilities. The other four applications from Berrien county awaiting approval represent 64 new jobs and the saving of 50 present jobs and will involve $1,004,652 in construction.

Van Buren and Allegan applications have both been approved.

The Everett Piano company in Van Buren's South Haven is undertaking a rehabilitation project of its plant for $1,643,900 that will save 305 jobs from being eliminated and create 100 new jobs, according to its application.

In Allegan county, the Electro-Heat corporation in Allegan township has won tax-exemption approval for a $155,944 project that will create seven new jobs.

No applications have been received as yet from Cass county, said Cross.

Across the state, tax-exemption status is being sought for close to a half billion dollars of industrial expansion. If all the projects are approved, it will result in the creation of 8,670 jobs and the saving of 17,196 existing jobs, according to Cross' office. Seventy-five of the 86 applications received have already been approved.

The law does not decrease the amount of property taxes paid by the industry.

Cross admitted that many of the industries applying for the exemption would have proceeded with expansion even without the law, but he said the law will have long-term effects that will outweigh any early shortcomings.

"The law expresses in hard terms the feeling of a community toward industry," said Cross.

When the community recommends approval of the exemption certificate, said Cross, it is saying it wants industry.

"And once the industry is there," he continued, "there is a kind of locking mechanism that occurs. The chances are then better that the industry will eventually further invest in that community instead of elsewhere."

The law provides a tie between the community and company that would not have existed otherwise, said Cross.

"The law has become a promotional tool and an incentive for companies to come to Michigan," he said.

In the future, companies will explore their chances of obtaining an exemption before deciding on a community, he predicted.

Ecology Battle Still Raging: DNR Chief

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Dr. Howard A. Tanner, new director of the Department of Natural Resources in his first official visit to Southwestern Michigan, didn't let celebrating Grand Mere association members forget the ecology fight is far from over.

Dr. Tanner spoke last night at the tenth anniversary dinner of the organization founded a decade ago to preserve the dune and swamp area around three shallow lakes in Lincoln township.

The meeting was held at Tosi's restaurant, Stevensville, an early GMA rally site.

Dr. Tanner said there will be compromises in the sand mining bill now in a state House-Senate conference committee. He also said there are too few DNR dollars to adequately police present conservation regulations, especially regarding off-road vehicles. And on another point he said requests for funds to buy park land face 10-to-1 odds.

Each of the topics he mentioned was of particular interest to the members of the Grand Mere organization.

Sand mining is the greatest, immediate threat, Tanner said, adding that large scale sand removal operations are ready to begin with lifting of environmental blocks. The pressure to allow sand mining is tremendous, he indicated. The alternatives, he said, including state purchase of the extremely rare and unique ecological systems, are hampered by low state funds.

Policing areas to restrict off-road vehicles is difficult. Vandals tear down the no trespassing signs as fast as they are put up, he said.

Citing department goals to acquire another 100 acres of property in the Grand Mere area and eventually a total of 600 acres, Dr. Tanner said there is $3 million in the land acquisition budget and $30 million in requests.

The former Michigan State professor was one of the key figures in the effort to introduce coho salmon in Lake Michigan as a new game fish with the side benefit of solution to the alewife infestation.

Dr. Tanner was named "Conservationist of the Year" in 1968 by the National Wildlife Federation. The 51-year-old son of a former Antrim county sheriff has the scientific background to solve wildlife and fisheries management problems, his supporters said last January when he was named to succeed the late Gene Gazlay.

Dr. Tanner gave the Grand Mere association warm praise for its efforts to preserve the area.

Lincoln and Lake township leaders were recognized for their fight against removing the dunes by sand mining companies.

Grand Mere association president, Atty. John Collins, repeated the 10-year-old goals of the organization: to effect the preservation of the unique, scenic, botanical and other features of the Grand Mere area and to create public awareness of the need for the preservation of prime natural areas. Collins said the record of the Grand Mere association the past year bore out the dedication to those goals.

Elected to the Grand Mere association board were Collins, Stevensville, and Mrs. John Paul Taylor, St. Joseph; David Ratajick, St. Joseph; Joseph Skwara, Stevensville; and Margie Pannell, Stevensville.

Michigan, Improved NW To Battle For First Saturday

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan hasn't played Northwestern in football since 1972, but that's not the only reason Coach Bo Schembechler says: "This is the best Northwestern team I've seen in several years."

Northwestern, a perennial Big Ten doormat, suddenly finds itself going up against the Wolverines on Saturday in a battle for a share of first place in the conference.

A crowd of some 90,000 is expected. Incredibly, it would be the lowest this season at Michigan Stadium.

"I thought we were getting a good deal when we dropped Iowa and picked up Northwestern," Schembechler said with a grin.

Then comes Boykin and all those guys."

Northwestern halfback Greg Boykin has rushed for more than 100 yards in four out of five games. He is tied for second in the league with a 123.5 average in two conference games, trailing only Michigan's Gordon Bell, who averages 137.5.

Some of the other guys Schembechler was talking about include quarterback Randy Dean, split end Scott Yelvington, fullback Rick Boothe and halfback Jim Pooler.

They are a major reason the Wildcats, who are 3-2 overall and 2-0 in the conference, are No. 1 in total offense in the Big Ten, second in passing, third in scoring and fourth in rushing.

Michigan, 2-0 in the league and 3-0-2 overall, is first in rushing defense and second in total defense.

Northwestern is no defensive slouch, either. The Wildcats shut out Indiana 30-0 last Saturday. The week before they gave up 23 points but beat Purdue, 31-28.

"This is going to be a tough football game," Schembechler insisted.

"Dean really came through at quarterback and that's been the key. In five games he's hit on 44 of 76 passes for 650 yards and only two passes were intercepted."

Boykin has rushed for 588 yards. That's the story, I tried to get (recruit) Boothe. I knew they were good."

"You don't equate them (the Wildcats) with a team that can beat you, but they can."

Schembechler said that at East Lansing, when the Wolverines were beating Michigan State 18-6 Saturday, he heard the score of the Indiana-Northwestern game and said, "Oh, here we go."

"Fluke? That was no fluke. That was total domination."

It will be the 44th meeting between the teams dating back to 1892. Michigan has won 30, Northwestern 11 and there have been two ties.

While U-M will be trying to stop the balanced running-passing attack of Northwestern, the Wildcats will have to be ready to stop the running of Bell, fullback Rob Lytle and freshman quarterback Rick Leach.

Leach hasn't been much of a passing threat, but if he gets on the beam he's sure to concentrate on split end Jim Smith — who is also a running threat on reverses. Smith is probably one of the top four or five receivers in the country. He also is a superb kick returner.

Linebacker Calvin O'Neal, wolfback Don Dufek, end Dan Jilek, middle guard Tim Davis and tackle Greg Morton are all defensive standouts for the Wolverines.

Two Homers Put Red Sox On Critical List Perez Belts Boston Hopes

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Boston Red Sox find themselves on the critical list after being hit and run over by the Big Red Machine.

After looking sick in the first three games of the World Series, Tony Perez suddenly regained his health with two home runs as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Red Sox 6-2 Thursday night and took a 3-2 stranglehold in the best-of-seven game classic.

The National League champions can polish off the Red Sox Saturday in the sixth game at Fenway Park, where Jack Billingham will face Boston left-hander Bill Lee.

"I'll never get down on myself," said Perez, who had fought a torturous batting slump before breaking it Thursday night before the appreciative, roaring hometown fans in Riverfront Stadium.

Cincinnati's all-time RBI leader had gone hitless in 15 World Series appearances before smashing a hanging slider from Reggie Cleveland over the left-center field wall to give the Reds a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning.

In the sixth, Perez got another good pitch from the beefy Boston right-hander and parked that one a little higher over the left-center field fence. Two men were on base at the time and it gave hard-throwing Don Gullett a handsome 5-1 lead.

Perez had tried everything to crack the distressing drought. He told reporters that his superstitious wife, Pituka, urged him to try driving a different way to the ballpark for Game 5. Also, she took Tony shopping before the game to "spend money," and try to get his mind off the Series.

"She tried everything to get me back in the groove again," Perez said.

Perez has been in slumps before but never worried about them.

"I've hit a lot worse," he said, "but in a World Series everyone knows about it."

While the Cuban-born star was making life miserable for the American League champions with his bat, Gullett was making them look sick with his arm. The Reds' best pitcher gave up just two hits to Boston through eight innings and then three more in the ninth before being forced from the game with just one out to go.

"I lost a little bit in the ninth," said Gullett, explaining he got cold while waiting during a long Cincinnati eighth inning.

When the chunky southpaw gave up two-out singles to Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk, Manager Sparky Anderson was Johnny on the Spot.

"Sparky came out and said, 'You're not going anywhere,'" Gullett said. "There's two outs. Anderson told me. He wanted me to work from the windup because I have better stuff than that, but I didn't."

When the obviously tired Gullett gave up a run-scoring double to Fred Lynn, Anderson revisited the mound and got the left-hander out of the game. In came Rawly Eastwick, who blew three pitches by the dangerous Rico Petrocelli for the clincher.

The Cincinnati kid gave up a run in the first inning on a triple by Denny Doyle and Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly before Boston's ninth-inning flurry. Along with Perez' four RBI, the Reds got a run in the fifth on Gullett's single and a double by Pete Rose and one in the eighth on Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly.

Clarke Scores Two Goals, Unbeaten Flyers Nip Blues

From Associated Press

The Most Valuable Player in the National Hockey League last year, Philadelphia's Bobby Clarke, says it's too early to think about the scoring title this season.

Clarke scored two goals — his fourth and fifth of the season — and added an assist to lead the undefeated Flyers to a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Blues Thursday night.

"Anybody that thinks about a scoring trophy at this point of the season shouldn't be playing hockey," Clarke said. "It's something I never expect to win."

In other NHL games Thursday, Buffalo crushed Chicago 7-1 and Boston and Detroit battled to a 2-2 tie.

In the World Hockey Association,

San Diego shut out Indianapolis 3-0 while Winnipeg rolled over Denver 7-3.

On Clarke's second goal of the game, the Flyers' captain was trying to stop the game when he scored on a power play what proved to be the game-winner.

"I was just trying to get off the ice," Clarke said. "I was so tired I was hoping the goalie would tie it up so we could change lines."

Clarke has 11 points, which ties him for the league lead.

Phil Esposito set up Terry O'Reilly's second goal of the season, then scored himself as Boston took its 2-1 lead in the first period. But Walt McEneaney's goal from a scramble near the Bruins' net at 16:30 of the third period gave Detroit the tie.

"Chicago just happened to hit us when things were going our way," explained Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith after his Sabres smothered the Black Hawks.

"We were skating and everything was breaking for us."

Peter McNab, Jocelyn Guerin and Craig Ramsay gave Buffalo a 3-0 lead in the opening period and the Sabres kept pouring it on for their third victory in three games, their best start ever. The Sabres have scored 19 goals to four for the opposition.

Goalie Ernie Wakely blocked 30 shots to record his first shut-out of the season and Alex Tidy scored twice as San Diego blanked Indianapolis. Tidy scored his first two goals as a professional.

Yell-Pekka Ketola's two goals sparked a six-goal outburst in the opening period as Winnipeg easily rolled to its third successive victory. The Jets blitzed a porous Denver defense for three goals in the first four minutes. At the end of the first period, Winnipeg led 6-2.

MSU Out To Snap Jinx Spartans Favored To Defeat Minnesota

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State begins trying to salvage its season as the Spartans travel to Minnesota this weekend in a battle of winless Big Ten schools.

Both teams have 3-2 overall records and are 0-2 in conference games. But the Gophers have beaten MSU in eight of their last nine games dating back to 1957, and have won seven straight games between the two teams at home.

Despite that jinx, the Spartans should be favored. Winners over Notre Dame and with the tough part of their schedule over, a 9-2 season is not beyond imagination.

Minnesota has lost to Indiana and last week to Illinois, sandwiched around victories over Western Michigan, Oregon and Ohio. The Gophers average 21 points a game, however, compared to MSU's 13.

Sparking the Minnesota attack is quarterback Tony Dungey, who is averaging 34 passes a game. He has completed 43 of 72 for 591 yards and five touchdowns.

The top Gopher running backs are Bobby Holmes and J.D. Pride, with 327 and 325 yards, respectively, and two touchdowns each. Split end Ron Kulas has snugged 15 passes for 207 yards, while Mike Jones has hauled in 12 for 187.

"Minnesota was a pretty basic team against Illinois," said MSU assistant coach Ron Chisner. "I think they're a good offensive football team — they have the ability to move the football."

On defense, the Gophers have given up about two touchdowns a game, and an average 230 yards rushing and 87 passing.

"People have passed against them and have run against them," said MSU offensive coach Bill Davis. "We feel definitely we can move the ball on them."

Probably at their healthiest stage of the season, the Spartans should begin mounting a more potent attack this week. The tough defenses of Ohio State, Notre Dame and Michigan are memories — and they were the main excuse MSU coaches gave for the team's paltry one touchdown and three field goals in those three crucial games.

Quarterback Charlie Baggett — having a mediocre year so far — has thrown only 38 times in five games, completing 19 with six interceptions. He is also the Spartans' third-best runner, with 158 yards.

Heading the running corps again will be tailback Levi Jackson with 306 yards and fullback Tyrone Wilson with 251. Wilson may share the position Saturday with Jim Earley.

The heart of the Spartan game continues to be the defense, both up front and in the tough secondary. Cornerback John Breslin, who only last week took over for an injured Mike Imhoff, is limping and may be replaced by Ken Jones.

Game time at Memorial Stadium in Minneapolis is 2:30 p.m. EDT.

Controversy 'Almost' Avoided U.S. Games Lead Healthy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The VII Pan American Games almost made it through one day without controversy.

Emphasize "almost." As the fifth day of the problem-plagued Games began today, the United States tied the Cubans in gold medals, 26-26, and jumped out to a healthy 66-50 edge in total medals. The gold-silver-bronze count for the Americans was 26-24-16 with the Cubans at 26-16-8. Next was Canada at 5-6-12 with host Mexico following with 3-5-11.

Thursday's schedule started out innocently enough, but just as it had each of the three previous days, officialdom came down with a case of foot-in-mouth disease.

This time it was in the women's 200-meter final where Young Americans Chandra Cheeseborough and Pamela Jiles finished 1-2 in a photo finish that took hours to sort out.

But just before the medals were to be handed out, a misinformed official told Miss Jiles she had won. So she joyfully accepted what she thought was her second gold of the Games. Later, when the mix-up was discovered, the medals were tearfully exchanged.

Two disputes left over from Wednesday's comedy of errors were mediated Thursday. A jury of appeal let stand the results in the men's discus, even though it was conceded the Cuban who won the silver medal used an illegal disc. Americans John Powell and Jay Silvester took the gold and bronze medals.

The Yanks fared better in the three-day equestrian finals where a protest had been lodged over the accidental disqualification of world champion Bruce Davidson of Union-ville, Pa., in the middle of an impressive run. An official thought Davidson was Canadian Jim Day, who was ousted for a minor rules violation.

Davidson was allowed to resume his ride from the point of disqualification. He finished with a silver medal behind Tad Coffin of Stratford, Vt., the gold medal winner.

The U.S. equestrian team also earned a gold medal — one of eight Thursday for the Americans.

After three days of Cuban domination in weightlifting, the United States finally made a successful challenge. Leo James of Clarksville, Tenn., won two gold medals of three in the light-heavyweight weightlifting categories. Cuba's Abel Lopez won the other gold, and both silvers. James had the third silver.

In middle heavyweight, the Americans did even better with Phil Grippaldi, Belleville, N.J., winning two golds and a bronze, and Frank Capsouras, Hillsdale, N.J., adding a silver and two bronze.

Both U.S. gold medals in track and field were Pan Am records. Miss Cheeseborough, with Miss Jiles four-hundredths of a second behind, traveled the 200 meters in 22.77 seconds, bettering a mark Miss Jiles set in preliminaries. And Tom Woods, a senior at Oregon State, triumphantly cleared 7-foot-4½ inches on his final try in the high jump.

Guyana won its first gold medals of the Games, thanks to University of Southern California sprinter James Gilkes, a legal resident of the small South American country. Gilkes won the 200 meters with a clocking of 20.43 seconds.

Diane Jones of Canada easily outdistanced runner-up Gail Fitzgerald of East Orange, N.J., 4.673 points to 4.486 in the women's pentathlon. Miss Jones' sister, Joanne, was seventh.

Mexicans set the pace in the 5,000-meter run. Domingo Tibaudiza of Colombia and Ted Castaneda of Colorado Springs, Colo., swept past them in the late going and finished 12 in the event. Rodolfo Gomez, the Pan Am torch lighter last Sunday, held on for third behind the winning time of 14 minutes, 2 seconds.

Cubans Maria Sarria and Hilda Ramirez led an assault on the Games' women's shot put record, that in all was exceeded by the first five finishers Thursday. The winning throw of 39 feet 1¾ inches was nearly eight feet better than the old mark.

Cuba, the United States and Mexico were the top three in the fencing foil team finals with Canada the odd squad out.

In basketball, the undefeated U.S. men's squad rolled to an easy victory over Puerto Rico, 85-53. Otis Birdsong led the Americans with 18 points, and Coach Mary Harshman was able to play substitutes most of the second half after building a 36-19 halftime edge.

Today's schedule included three finals in track and field — men's 110-meter hurdles, women's high jump, and men's javelin — women's individual foil in fencing, two shooting events, and the last two weightlifting classes.

RECORD BREAKER: Canadian shot putter Lucetta Moreau pushes hard as she tosses the shot to a Pan Am record and a bronze medal in Mexico City Thursday. A total of five competitors broke the old Pan Am record in the event. (AP Wirephoto)

Stickney Sparks St. Joseph Girls Unbeaten Bears Post 11th Victory

After the first half of the girls basketball season in the Big Seven conference, it's easy to see that St. Joseph is this year's powerhouse.

The Bears racked up their sixth conference win and 11th season victory without a loss by trouncing previously unbeaten Holland 63-34 Thursday night in Holland.

In other games, Kalamazoo Central downed Benton Harbor 58-41, Eau Claire beat Decatur 47-39, Dowagiac got by Coloma 46-33, Buchanan squashed Brandywine 47-32, Berrien Springs thumped Niles 58-32 and Marcellus dumped Martin 48-38.

"We had a good offensive performance and our defense got tougher as the game went along," commented Bears' coach Marty Scherr.

Kay Stickney, a solid performer for the Bears this season, hit 50 per cent from the floor and was eight-for-eight from the free throw line as she led St. Joe with 22 points. Sue Griswold added 14 and Andy Gast and Sue King netted 10 points apiece for the Bears.

Griswold was the team's leading rebounder with 12 and King pulled down seven more.

The game didn't become a runaway until the third quarter when the Bears held the Dutch, now 5-1 in the conference, scoreless while running up 20 points and a 49-20 lead after three quarters. "We really didn't do anything different," commented Scherr. "We just passed well and played tough defense."

Sue Bush led Holland with 18 points, nine of which came in the fourth quarter.

St. Joe's junior varsity, notched a 32-19 win with Sue Piontek and Beth King scoring eight points apiece for the Bears.

Kalamazoo Central took advantage of 30 fouls by Benton Harbor and made 21 free throws. The Tigers were able to make just three charity tosses.

The Maroon Glants' Mary Viehlig led all scorers with 22 points and Teresa Ezell and Linda Knapp notched eight points apiece.

Debra Jones led the Tigers, now 9-2 this season, with 12 points. Carmella Hull had her problems as she fouled out in the first half with just 10 points to her credit. Robin Walker and Dorothy Logan each notched six points for Benton Harbor. Walker was the team's leading rebounder with nine while Logan pulled down seven caroms.

Despite its foul trouble, the Tigers kept the game close through three quarters. But the foul shooting of Central pulled it through as the Giants outscored the Tigers 16-10 in the last stanza after leading 42-31 through three periods.

Benton Harbor's junior varsity won its game by a 31-28 score with Denise Boyd netting 11 points for the winners.

Eau Claire overcame a 20-point effort by Decatur's Gayle Stambeck for its sixth win in eight games. Kathy Rodell had 15 points and Tammie Vladic added 12 more for the Beavers. The junior varsity of Eau Claire posted a 28-26 win.

Dowagiac and Coloma had a good, tight ballgame going until the third quarter when the Chiefs blew it open with an 18-3 point outburst that put them ahead 39-22. Coloma's Cindy Molter led all scorers with 15 points. Dowagiac got 14 points from Debbie Schonbok, 11 points out of Jessie Garrett and 10 more from Terri Cooley. The Chiefs' junior varsity came up with a 26-18 win.

Brandywine tried to double team Buchanan's main scoring threat, Patience Vanderbush, but she netted 15 points anyway, as the Bucks raised their record to 5-5 overall and 4-3 in the Blossomland. Becky Gray added 12 points for Buchanan. Melanie Barber and Cathy Simmons had seven points apiece for the Bobcats, now 1-6 in league action. Brandywine's junior varsity posted a 27-11 win.

Berrien Springs upped its record to 8-2 with its non-league win over Niles, now 0-10. Janet Hille led the Shamrocks with 17 points while Candy Mead scored nine and Sue Bennett added eight more. Berrien Springs also took the junior varsity game by a 58-14 score.

Broncos Facing Top QB

FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Mistakes were Western Michigan's undoing last week and, if the Broncos expect to break their winless football streak, they sure can't afford many Saturday.

They'll be facing Toledo's Gene Swick, national passing and total offense leader.

The teams tangle in a 6 p.m. game, the opener of the First Annual Mid-American Conference Festival of Football twinbill in Cleveland. Bowling Green can take over the MAC lead later by beating Kent State, which nipped Coach Elliot Uzelac's Broncos' 22-17 last week with the help of 17 second-half points. They resulted from WMU errors: failure to get off a punt, fumbling a kickoff and a punt.

"No question those mistakes hurt, but we're getting better ...," first-year coach Uzelac said. "We just need to get that first win now."

WMU has an 0-4 conference record and is 0-6 overall, while Toledo — despite Swick — is 0-3 in the league and 1-5 overall.

Another MAC member, Central Michigan, has a conference engagement at Ball State. CMU is 2-0-1 in the league and 4-1-1 for the season.

Eastern Michigan (3-2), the lone expansion member still ineligible in the MAC standings, plays at home against Northern Michigan (5-1). The two are hopeful of gaining a National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II playoff berth.

Three Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association games are on tap: Albion at Kalamazoo, Hope at Alma and Olivet at Adrian.

The Great Lakes Conference also has a full slate of games. Ferris State is at Northwood, Saginaw Valley is at Grand Valley and Hillsdale is at Wayne State.

Michigan Tech, the state's lone member in the Northern Intercollegiate Conference, hosts Minnesota-Morris in a league game.

Big Ten power Michigan, meanwhile, entertains Northwestern, while Michigan State is at Minnesota.

Coloma Golfers Tame Tigers

Coloma golfers closed out an excellent 14-3 season by downing Benton Harbor 180-210 Thursday at Point O' Woods.

Coloma's Rick Friedman was the medalist at 43. Other com scores included Tim Kobetz 44, Lou Kerlikowske 45 and Keith Penoyar 48.

Benton Harbor had Kevin Kinnavy at 47, Tim McCourt 53, Curtis Schull 54 and John Haupt 56.

St. Joe Girls Clip Lakeview

BATTLE CREEK — St. Joseph's girls tennis team ended its first season on a successful note Thursday by defeating Battle Creek Lakeview 5-2.

The Bears, who ended 6-9, got singles wins from Linda Lukaszewski, Kathy Beck, Lisa Archer and Kathy McKee and a doubles win from Ann Boerme-Nancy Lim.

Hoople Forecasts Face Investigation

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Faithful Forecaster

Egad, respected readers, it's my sad duty to inform you that the ole Major is under investigation by the Fearless Forecasting Fraternity (FFF).

I've been charged with 999 violations of the Code of Unpredictable Predictors.

Let me say right now that all these charges are untrue...well, at least half of them.

The charge of transporting inaccurate forecasts over state lines is poppycock. Just look at my average!

Also the charge I attended 505 tailgate parties last season is unfounded. I really only made 255 of them. Hie!

And the charge someone bought me a 1976 Cadillac to drive around is a bunch of bull...it's really a rebuilt 1957 Edsel.

I also understand I'm under investigation by the FBI, CIA and RCA for impersonating a football forecaster. Pshaw!

Also, the Health Department is also on my tail for polluting the press boxes with my rum-filled cigar and two-pound bag of onions I carry with me for self-protection.

Let me say that I would rather leave the fraternity than serve the possible penalty...six months as forecaster of Mexican bull fights and forfeiture of drinking privileges at Lefty's Bar & Betting Parlor.

Speaking of sure bets, on with the forecast!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Major took somewhat of a dive last week as his average in high school games dipped to .737 (70-25) and his college average to .735 (144-50-6).

Texas, Arkansas Priming Players

From Associated Press

It's Texas-Arkansas time again and that means psychological warfare.

Both coaches have been hard at it this week, heaping praise on the opposition and predicting dire consequences for their own teams.

"They'll be playing before a highly partisan crowd," moaned Texas Coach Darrell Royal. "They're coming off a great win. Their morale will be sky high. And they haven't beaten us in a while."

"We know a lot about the Longhorns," countered Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles. "One thing I've learned is that they have a great knack of forgetting that loss to Oklahoma and getting ready for us. We've had our best success against them when they were beating Oklahoma."

Both clubs are 4-1. The Longhorns, ranked eighth nationally, dropped a 24-17 game to Oklahoma last week while the Razorbacks, rated 20th, were whipping Baylor 41-3.

Both clubs run the ball well. Arkansas is ranked second nationally in rushing and Texas is rated fourth. The Longhorns, however, are favored by one touchdown on the strength of a better passing game and better over-all defense.

Fullback Earl Campbell and quarterback Marty Atkins are the big guns in the Texas arsenal, and Broyles says he doesn't have any special defense in mind. "We're praying," he said. "That's all you can do."

Running backs Jerry Eckwood and Ike Forte carry the load for Arkansas and both are averaging better than 100 yards a carry.

The kickoff is scheduled for 3:50 p.m. EDT and the game will be televised in most sections of the country by ABC.

Elsewhere, four of the nation's top five teams are heavily favored to remain unbeaten. But the fifth, fourth-ranked Nebraska, is expected to have its hands full at Oklahoma State. Top-ranked Ohio State entertains Wisconsin, No. 2 Oklahoma visits Kansas State, No. 3 Southern California hosts winless Oregon and No. 5 Texas A&M is at Texas Christian.

No. 6 Alabama welcomes Southeastern Conference rival No. 16 Tennessee, No. 7 Michigan hosts Northwestern, No. 9 Penn State visits Syracuse, No. 10 Missouri is at No. 12 Colorado, No. 11 Arizona State is at Colorado State, No. 13 Arizona entertains Texas Tech at night, No. 14 Florida hosts Florida State, No. 15 Notre Dame is at Air Force, No. 17 Michigan State visits Minnesota, No. 18 UCLA travels to Washington State and No. 19 Maryland is at Wake Forest.

The Arizona State-Colorado State game and Grambling's contest with Mississippi Valley are the other regional TV games.

Fantastic 230 Average Tops Pallas' 228

Kolberg Fazio Tourney Qualifier

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Bob Kolberg and Harvey Pallas are good friends and former bowling teammates. But last Sunday the two held a big "shootout" in qualifying for the Buzz Fazio Open bowling tournament at Sunset Lanes in Kalamazoo.

Kolberg averaged a fantastic 230 over the six-game series to beat out Pallas, who ended with an equally-sizzling 228 average. Kolberg fired games of 206-258-238-196-257-224 to finish with a fabulous 1382 while Pallas put together games of 246-223-248-233-236-184 for 1370.

The southwestern Michigan pair finished one-two among the seven competitors but only Kolberg will advance to the Buzz Fazio pro event next weekend at Ken Nottke's Bowl in Battle Creek.

"You, Harvey and I are pretty good friends, we even rode up to Kalamazoo together," voiced Kolberg, who lives in Coloma. "This is the first year we're not on the same team."

Actually we were rooting each other on Sunday. This other left-hander had a 735 after three games while Harvey had 717 and I had 705. So we were just shooting at each other until the last frame or so. Harvey just bowled great except for that last game."

Kolberg hit a 224 final game while Pallas, from Stevensville, slumped to 184, his low game of the set.

Kolberg now hopes he can continue his hot streak next Saturday when he goes up against the top pros in the nation in the $50,000 Fazio Open.

"I really can't say how I'll do," answered Kolberg, who carries averages of 206 and 188 in two area leagues. "If I bowl like I did Sunday I stand a better chance than good chance but you can't count on that...that was just one time."

A field of about 180 bowlers will compete in the Fazio Open. The field, which will battle for top prize of $5,000, includes last year's winner Don Johnson and Earl Anthony, No. 1 money winner on the Professional Bowling Association (PBA) tour last year.

The tournament opens on Friday with the Pro-Am event. In the Pro-Am, each amateur will bowl three games with three different pros. The amateur winner will receive $1,000.

Bowlers wishing to enter the Pro-Am can call Ken Nottke's Bowl in Battle Creek at 1-863-8121. Entry fee is $50.

Qualifying rounds for the tourney will be held Saturday and Sunday with the finals slated for Monday, Oct. 27, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Barb Hersh, Lorraine Criffield and Gene Mapes all came up with 600 series Thursday night. Barb led the assault with a hefty 190-228-244-662 series, second best in the area.

Lorraine hit her first 600 ever with 199-204-204-607 while Gene produced 202-178-221-601.

Karl Gersonde also came up with big efforts this week with a 690 series which included a 270 game (nine strikes in a row).

The Bowlers Victory Legion (BVL) tourney is scheduled for Oct. 26 through Nov. 8 at all area houses. Entry fee is $1 per time bowled. Bowlers may enter as many times as they wish. A total of 20 prizes is guaranteed.

Kickoff for the tournament will be Oct. 26 at 1 p.m. at Gersonde's with members of the Southwestern Michigan Women's Bowling Association and the Blossomland Men's Association competing against each other.

Split conversions this week include the 6-7-10 by Marie Miller, Barbara Carlson, Sophie Mast, Al Kling, Ethel Dean, D. Kolberg, Diana Milcarek, Karen Steeler and Marge Pollington; the 8-7 by Wanda Thompson, George Turney, Natalie Ness, Connie Pascoe and Ruth Everett; the 4-7-10 by Carol Masterson, Joyce Smith, Ted Harding and Carol Hicks; the 4-10 by Marian Spingar; the 4-6 by G. Barnes and the 4-7-9-10 by Judy Clark. Norma Schulz converted the 4-10 and 2-7 on the same night.

Karen Halbert tossed an 115 triplicate while Bill Griffin had an all-spure game.

Chandler Says Umpire System Hurts Series

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

CINCINNATI (AP) — All umpires should be officials of baseball and not instruments of the rival National and American Leagues, says former commissioner A.B. "Happy" Chandler. "If this were the case, we probably would have avoided some of the problems we have had in this World Series," added the 77-year-old former governor of Kentucky who ruled the game with an iron fist after World War II.

"It seems pretty ridiculous to have high ball callers in one league, low ball callers in the other, designated hitters and no designated hitters and different interpretations of the balk rule. I know the league presidents oppose it bitterly and maybe most of the owners, but the umpires should be assigned to the commissioner. They should work in both leagues and follow a single code."

"Umpires belong to the game, not to the leagues. They belong to the fans."

Old Happy still is making sense after 24 years of ostracism by the game following his ouster by owners after the 1951 All-Star Game. "For 24 years, I didn't hear from anybody — not Ford Frick and not that lieutenant general fellow who followed him — I forgot his name," Chandler said.

"Then this nice young man (Bowie Kuhn, current commissioner) wrote me a letter inviting me and mama to come over to Cincinnati for the Series. I think this young man will be a fine commissioner if they let him."

The name that escaped Happy's memory was Lt. Gen. William Eckert, who served a short term between the Frick and Kuhn tenures.

Wearing a blue cap with a big "K" for the University of Kentucky, Chandler Thursday night sat near Kuhn's official box to the left of the Cincinnati dugout and kept up a running repartee with friends and strangers. Fans with long memories loathed over his shoulder and asked for autographs. The former commissioner obviously was pleased.

Others came by to congratulate him on some of his hallmarks but highly controversial decisions. "I represented the players, umpires and the fans," he said proudly. "I saw to it that games were fairly played and honestly won. I fought the gambling influence."

"My mistake was that I felt my obligation was to the game and not to the owners."

Chandler served as state senator, lieutenant governor and governor of Kentucky and U.S. senator. He was tapped for the commissioner's post in 1945.

He was not a do-nothing executive. Baseball immediately felt the impact of his unwavering decisions.

Although a Southerner, he was credited with helping break the longtime racial barrier by supporting Brooklyn's Branch Rickey in allowing Jackie Robinson to play in the majors.

"The owners voted 15-1 not to let him play," Chandler said. "Rickey came to me and said he couldn't succeed in his move without my support. I told him I would back him all the way."

"Rickey said, 'How can we treat him?' I said, 'Like just another ball player — no better, no worse.'"

"It wasn't easy. Robinson was hard to deal with. Ben Chapman at Philadelphia threatened that he would make trouble. Dixie Walker said he was going home to paint his house. The St. Louis Cardinals were going to boycott the game. Some said they'd burn down the Polo Grounds."

"I did something Kennesaw Mountain Landis wouldn't do for 27 years."

Chandler, with the aid of the New York Yankees' Larry MacPhail, instituted the player pension plan. He signed the first television contract. He was the first commissioner to assign six umpires, instead of four, to the World Series.

In 1948, he granted amnesty to a score of major leaguers who had been banned for jumping to the Mexican League. He made free agents of 23 Detroit players. He fined and handed Leo Durocher a year's suspension for associating with gamblers and other infractions. Happy is a bouncy, vigorous 77 with four children, 12 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. He lives on a sprawling farm in Versailles, Ky., his ancestral home.

"I am from Kentucky, the home of bourbon whiskey, but I never had a drink in my life," he said. "I never smoked a cigarette."

"I have always been a sober man. I was a sober commissioner."

Recalling his abrupt dismissal, Chandler said his liberal viewpoint on the racial question proved his undoing.

"It was the Robinson case that got me," he added.

He said he always felt that baseball should be governed with a human — instead of a cold, legalistic — hand.

"One day Durocher came to me and said, 'Commissioner, Jackie Robinson called me a SOB.' I said, 'What did you say to him?' Durocher said, 'I called him a SOB, too.'"

"Then, you're even," I told Leo. "Forget it."

RX For Ailing Cities: Big Dose Of Aid?

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation's cities say they are struggling with forces beyond their control in trying to balance the urban budget and they argue that solutions will have to come from beyond the municipal boundary lines. Analysts prescribe large doses of federal and state money for the ailing cities. They urge of the responsibilities they've been taking.

The only one of the advisory commission's suggestions that has been enacted is revenue sharing and the U.S. Conference of Mayors has put top priority on making sure it is continued.

The present five-year, $30.2-billion program expires Dec. 31, 1976. Congress is considering a $39.8-billion extension to run for five years and nine months.

"If reenactment of general revenue sharing is delayed or if the program is not continued, actions taken at the local level to adjust budgets would be of such magnitude that this nation's economic recovery would be placed in serious jeopardy," Landrieu, a Democrat, told a House subcommittee.

Welfare reform and state financing of education have run into more trouble. "We're seeing these things taking place slowly," said Shannon, but he added that no quick action is likely.

A Ford administration source who deals regularly with state and local governments said he did not expect any major steps in welfare reform this year or next. Shannon agreed, noting that the administration is trying to cut rather than increase federal spending.

Landrieu indicated he was more hopeful of some sort of reform in the future. "We're certainly arguing very strongly that welfare should be reformed and it should become a federal responsibility," he said. "Irrespective of the relief that it would give to New York City, the nationalization of welfare would establish certain national standards and would reduce the temptation for people to migrate for social benefits."

The most controversial programs for rescuing the cities are those involving some sort of regional government or taxation system. Southwestern cities like

Houston have broad annexation powers, granted by the state, allowing them to simply expand their tax base to surrounding suburbs. Most city officials agree, however, that this works only in areas where the suburbs are not firmly established entities.

"Once they're in place, it's like pulling teeth to get them (annexed)," said Shannon.

Landrieu said "there isn't any doubt that ... the broadening of the political boundaries is one way of offsetting costs. And I think it's a fair method."

"But you have some pretty strong disincentives in most cities where minorities have finally gained political clout. They're reluctant to dilute that power. And suburbanites, having fled, are very reluctant to join hands with the communities they've just abandoned."

One alternative to outright annexation is a metropolitan taxing system like the one in Minneapolis.

Under a law that took effect this year, 135 municipalities in the area around Minneapolis and St. Paul split new property tax revenues on a formula basis. Whenever a new industrial or commercial establishment is located in one of the municipalities, 60 per cent of the assessed valuation is added to the property tax rolls of the local community. The rest goes to the other municipalities.

Minneapolis expects $410,000 in extra revenues this year as a result of the plan. "Everybody shares in the growth," said Mayor Albert Hofstede. "It eliminates (tax) disparity and improves planning."

The new law, believed to be the only one of its kind in the country, is the result of planning by the area's metropolitan council, an appointed body which was established almost a decade ago to study regional problems and which has steadily expanded its powers. Hofstede said that regional taxation is feasible for other areas. "If it can work here, it can work anywhere else," he said.

Other sources are less certain. "What other big city can get the legislature to go along with that (the Minneapolis plan)?" asked John Gunther, executive director of the mayors' conference. "In the Twin Cities there are not many blacks and not many poor people so the danger that many suburbanites worry about didn't exist."

Nicholas Panuzio, a Republican and former mayor of Bridgeport, Conn., now commissioner of public buildings for the General Services Administration, said the problems of the cities "won't be solved until the Congress changes its thinking and starts cutting out the garbage and stops spending money in ways that damage local governments."

"We spend millions on highways which only encourage people to move out of cities and reduce the tax base. We give tax credits for building new buildings which usually are built out in the suburbs. We should be giving tax incentives to rehabilitate corporate plants where they are in the cities. It comes down to many federal policies pulling people out of cities leaving just the minorities and the elderly who can't afford to pay the taxes."

President Ford and top administration officials have suggested that New York and other cities will simply have to learn to manage their money more wisely.

Robert Reischauer, an urban economist formerly with the Brookings Institution, says city services may have to be cut. People will have to do with less. "We're going to be on a treadmill for three or four years or maybe have a slight decline in real spending," he said.

The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, in its 1973 report, noted that many expenditures are "mandated by the state and demanded by the people."

"To define financial emergency mainly in terms of a city's ability to meet its financial obligations is to ignore a city's responsibility to the people who are dependent on the city for services."

Is it possible for the cities to survive? "It's not only possible," said commission fiscal expert Shannon. "They're going to. The prophets of doom notwithstanding."

Problems Not Likely To Go Away

EDITOR'S NOTE: The financial problems facing the nation's cities are not going to go away. But they can be eased if urban areas can broaden their tax bases. In the last part of their three-part series on "Cities in Crisis," Associated Press writers Louise Cook, Lee Mitgang and Michael Sniffen look at some of major proposals designed to solve the urban fiscal crisis.

better fiscal management by big city officials and greater cooperation from suburban authorities.

"There is an ever-widening gap between the cost of operating and the amount of money coming in," said Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, head of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

"That gap can be filled by reducing the services, which is not always possible, or increasing taxes, which has a tendency to drive people out of the center city, or through additional state and federal assistance," he said.

Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit said the federal government is to blame for many of the cities' troubles.

"The federal government refuses to make the kind of dramatic commitment to the cities that it freely made to the countryside 40 years ago when the rural areas were flat on their backs," he said.

"The same quality of commitment could transform the face of urban America in less than a decade."

The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations said in 1973 that fiscally troubled cities, most of them in the older, Eastern sections of the country, needed help on several fronts.

The commission called for implementation of revenue sharing, a federal takeover of welfare payments and state financing of education.

The same solutions hold true today, said John Shannon, the commission's assistant director of fiscal research. "Over the long term, the cities are going to have to shove up to the state and national governments some

Firm Denies Hazard In Baby Food

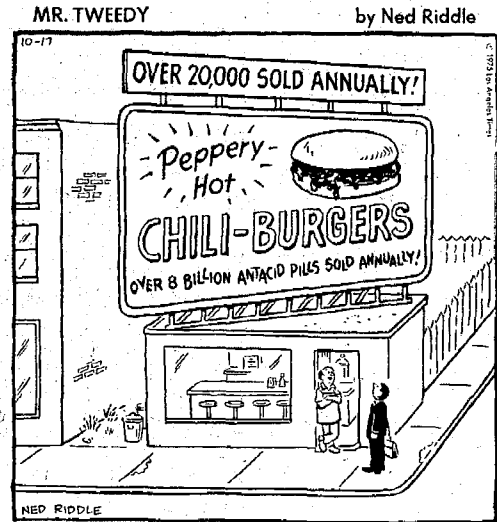

PITTSBURGH (AP) — One of the nation's largest baby foods makers says a federal Food and Drug Administration report warning of high lead levels in many children's diets was based on tests of products that have been improved since they were examined.

The H.J. Heinz Co. said no health hazard exists or ever has existed because of lead levels in canned baby juices, one of the products cited in an FDA report released Thursday. A Heinz spokesman said "dramatic improvements in lead levels of baby juices have been achieved since 1973 — the year in which most of the products tested by the FDA were produced."

And he said the foods tested by the government "did not contain lead levels remotely close to those at which a threat to health might occur."

Zollar Says Bargaining Act Is Still Effective

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Although the interpretation of the Michigan Marketing and Bargaining Act has been changed, the Act's original "intent" was exactly what has taken place in this (apple) bargaining session."

So said State Sen. Charles O. Zollar this week. He and Sen. William S. Ballenger, of Ovid, introduced the controversial, 12-page law in 1972.

Noting that the act expires next September, Zollar joined ranks with several others who have recently suggested that parts of the law should be changed.

Zollar and others say the law should be changed in confusing places. More will be known of the proposed change when the law comes up for renewal in Lansing next year.

The law was written to give processor and grower "an opportunity to get together" during price disputes, the Benton Harbor legislator said. "The language still allows that to be done," he said, even though an assistant attorney general reinterpreted a clause in the law last week.

The clause outlines how an arbitration panel must reach its decision during disputes. The intent of that clause, Zollar said, was to force the processor and grower who are set on arbitration into making the most reasonable offers possible. Once these offers were submitted in final form, an arbitration panel would pick one or the other.

But this type of "no compromise" arbitration is not the best, says Asst. Atty. General Harry Iwasko, who reinterpreted the clause. Nor is it contained in the law, he said.

Last week, at the request of one of the apple arbitration panels, Iwasko read the law and ruled that compromise between the parties should be allowed by allowing parties to change final offers. The law is vague about exactly when final offers must be made. And allowing compromise "is the only thing that makes sense," he said.

Iwasko, chief of the Attorney General's division of commerce and agriculture, said that parties involved with a forced settlement should "make an offer, go in and try to defend it, and if you can't defend it you lower it."

Thomas Moore, administrator of the state marketing and bargaining board, pointed out that "final offer" is stated only once in the law.

"The award of the committee shall be limited to the last offer of the association or the last offer of the handler..." a part of section 19 reads.

Nowhere is it explicitly written that the final offer cannot be substituted for another, stated Moore.

Thomas Butler, manager of the Michigan Processing Apple Growers, says that using the compromise the Growers and most state processors have set apples' prices. Generally, packers are paying $3 per hundredweight for hard apples and $2.75 for soft apples.

Meeting To Explain Proposed Bill

Growers Must Pay Minimum Wage

Farmers could not pay their workers solely on the basis of a piece rate, under a proposed state law to be discussed at a hearing Monday at 2 p.m. at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, M-139 and I-94.

State Reps. Ray Mittan, Niles, Bela Kennedy, Bangor, and Paul Porter, Hillsdale, are urging both growers and migrants to attend the hearing of the house agriculture committee. The committee wants to gather opinions on the proposed bill.

Also under the bill farmers would have to pay time and one-half to workers who labored over 48 hours a week, Kennedy said. With each year the time required for overtime would drop two hours until it reached 40 hours.

The law does not eliminate piece rates, according to Richard Feferman, executive director of Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance. Under the bill, workers are assured of earning the state minimum wage of $2 an hour, regardless of production, he said. Growers could pay a piece rate on top of the minimum wage to boost incentive, Feferman noted.

Currently, growers who use 500 man-days (a man day is defined as a worker putting in at least one hour a day) within three months has to pay the federal minimum wage, $1.80 an hour.

Growers now can base a worker's pay on the Michigan piece rate, as long as the worker earns $1.80 an hour.

Under the proposal, any grower who employs four or more workers at one time would have to pay the state minimum wage.

"I am concerned for both the employees and the employers," Kennedy said, explaining that he opposes the law. "It is essential that employees have incentive to accomplish as much as possible. It is also necessary that they be able to make as much money as possible in the short time."

Kennedy argued that statistics show that farm workers average considerably more money working on the piece rate as compared to the hourly rate.

Porter, a Democrat, said House Bill 4921 was about to be voted upon in the House of Representatives when it was diverted to the agriculture committee.

Niles FFA Kids Best Land Judges

Students from Niles high school handily won the annual Future Farmers of America land judging contest last week.

Niles produced the winning team from among five Berrien high schools, and also had eight of the students who finished in the top ten, said Harvey Belter, Berrien extension agent.

In competition by schools, Niles scored 703 points, Galien 642, River Valley 590, Lakeshore 575 and Benton Harbor 425.

The three-man team from Niles was made up of Scott Bauer, John Behm and Scott Foster.

Overall individual scoring champs were Scott Bauer, Dale Seyfred, John Behm, Scott Foster, Dale Robson, Bruce Foster, Susan Sherwood, Jim Jensen, Ken Quint and Donna Jacobson. All are from Niles high except for Dale Seyfred and Ken Quint, both from Galien high.

Niles will receive $50 cash from the Galien River Soil Conservation district, sponsor of the event which was held at the Gary Sohmers farm, Galien.

'75 Michigan 'Gras Pack Cut 21 Per Cent

Asparagus processors cut the Michigan pack 21 per cent this year by canning 37 per cent fewer pounds of 'gras while freezing 222 per cent more pounds.

Harry Foster, manager of the Michigan Asparagus Growers, reports that of Michigan's 17.6 million pounds of 'gras that were processed, 12.6 million pounds were canned and 5 million pounds were frozen. The figures come from the Benton Harbor office of the USDA Market News Service.

In terms of cases, the canned pack was 47 per cent smaller than in 1974. Nationwide, he said, processors put up 40 per cent fewer cases of 'gras this year.

This year's total was 769,073 cases, 47 per cent lower than 1974's 1,442,407 cases. The U.S. total was 3,617,855 cases, down 40 per cent from last year's 6,027,375 cases. "The short pack this year is very obvious in each state," Foster said.

He estimated that of the entire Michigan crop of some 26 million pounds, "about five million pounds were sold to the fresh market. This would be two or three times more than in any recent year."

It was reported in the spring that several of the state's processors of asparagus were planning to reduce the 1975 pack because of high inventories. On March 1 this year, carryover was 2.6 million cases, 103 per cent higher than on that date in 1974.

Foster said that as of Aug. 1, stocks of canned 'gras nationwide were 4.3 million cases, 18 per cent below the comparable 1974 figure.

And the inventory of frozen 'gras as of Sept. 1 was close to an all-time low for that date. Nationwide, there were 16.7 million pounds of frozen 'gras on hand this Sept. 1, compared to the 18.5 million pounds that date in 1974 and 27.2 million pounds in 1973.

The report also shows that Michigan was the only major asparagus-producing state in the country to increase acreage for 1975 harvest. Michigan's acreage increased from 17,000 to 17,800; total U.S. acreage fell from 112,590 to 104,770.

Prairies Of Last Century 'Breathtaking'

One of the most breathtaking and memorable sights that a farmer migrating West in the mid-1800's ever beheld was the prairie.

State Pesticide Bill Proposed

A public hearing on the proposed Pesticide Control Act will be held by the house agriculture committee Oct. 23 at 9 a.m. in the house chamber of the State Capitol in Lansing, State Rep. Bela Kennedy, Bangor, reported.

Kennedy introduced the bill, which requires the registration of pesticides, regulates the distribution and labeling of the chemicals, licenses dealers and certifies both private and commercial applicators, he said.

Accustomed to the more wooded and hilly terrain of the East, he was totally unprepared for his first view of prairie land.

Here's how one Iowa farmer described his first encounter with a prairie in 1834:

"I stood alone wrapped up in that peculiar sensation that man only feels when beholding a broad rolling prairie for the first time — an indescribable delightful feeling.

"For miles around stretched forth one broad expanse of clear, open land, entirely destitute of the buildings or fences, as in fact any mark of civilization, with all the hills reduced so as to make a gently rolling surface. The entire surface of land was covered with grass — that upon the upland thick and short, and in the low lands one or two feet thick, and in the swamps four or five feet."

"This early pioneer described the grass as unsurpassed for pasture. But for hay, it was a different story.

"Some is very good, some good and some that the less said about, the smaller the sin committed."

"The tough sod of the prairie presented a particular challenge for the prairie farmer. A special "breaking team" was used to plow the prairie soil for the first time.

"It consists of four to six yoke of oxen," the Iowa settler explained. "They are hitched to a pair of cart wheels, and to them hitched a plough with a beam fourteen feet long, and the share, of which weighs from 100 to 125 pounds, of wrought iron and steel, and which cuts a furrow from 16 to 24 inches wide."

"The prairie plowman who lacked this virgin soil found he had to carry two tools with him at all times.

One was a file. The tough sod required that the plow be kept very sharp and the file helped keep a keen edge upon the share and coulter.

The rich, heavily-vegetated soil also stuck to the plow in a troublesome manner. The plowman carried a small wooden paddle to clean off the masses of dirt that clung to the mould-board.

The best of the early prairie plowmen turned about an acre or two a day. The soil yielded sizable corn crops the first year of tilling and soon wheat became a major crop, too.

The Iowa farmer summed up the description of his soil in this way:

"It takes two or three years for these sods to become thoroughly decomposed and then the soil is of a light, loose black vegetable mould, very easily stirred by the plough. It is generally one of the easiest in the world to till, and of course remarkably fertile."

NEWS OF MARKETS

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today while investors watched last-minute efforts by New York City officials to avert a default on city obligations that come due this afternoon.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down about a point, and losers took a 3-1 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The city stood suddenly on the verge of default after a teachers' union's refusal to commit pension funds to a cash-raising plan.

As the market opened, city officials were meeting with teachers' union leaders to try to persuade them to change their minds.

And President Ford called some of his aides to the White House to discuss the situation.

Although stocks were declining, there was no immediate sign of any heavy selling pressure.

Early prices on the Big Board included Dow Chemical, down 1/4 at 90 1/2; Tiger International, unchanged at 12 1/2; and General Electric, off 1/4 at 47 1/4.

On Thursday the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 65 at 837.85 after backing down from an earlier 8-point gain.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about an 8-5 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index rose .09 to 47.33.

Big Board volume increased to 18.91 million shares from 14.44 million in the previous session.

The American Stock Exchange market value index dipped .02 to 83.95.

U.S. Grant

GALLEN — Galien village council held a public hearing and work session on its 1976 application for federal Community Development funds last night, but probably won't formally adopt an application and proposed fund use until late November, according to a private consultant for the village.

Leslie Cripps of Berrien Springs said purpose of the meeting was to obtain information from the community on possible uses of federal money.

He said the village received about $125,000 in Community Development funds this year.

School Secretaries
Ordered Reinstated

BLOOMINGDALE — Three secretaries in the Bloomingdale school district, who were discharged last February, have been ordered reinstated by a hearing officer for a agency with no loss of pay or benefits.

The order was issued Monday in Lansing by Bert H. Wicking, an administrative law judge for the Michigan Employment Relations Commission, who presided over a May 6 hearing held under the state public employees relations act.

The three, all employed in the district's central office, were discharged by the school board on Feb. 28 after they wrote a letter to the board in which charges were made against another employee, according to

HENRY FORD II

German Legislation
Worries Auto Exec

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Henry Ford II cautioned Thursday against "a greater measure" of industrial democracy as introduced by the government of former Chancellor Willy Brandt.

Brandt's successor, Helmut Schmidt, has pledged to pass a revolutionary bill designed to give workers and company shareholders equal say in running all plants with more than 2,000 employees.

"I hope you will not interpret my statements as an attempt to interfere in a matter which is predominantly one for the Federal Republic," Ford told his audience.

"I just want to state my opinion that it would be a great misfortune if the German economy — possibly the most successful and dynamic in the world — would lose its competitiveness by well-intended, but paralyzing legislation."

Ford, in Germany to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Ford Motor Company's Teutonic subsidiary, said he was worried about another bill, which would put two or more trade union officials on the boards of factories.

"I would like to caution ... against the possible idea that if a certain measure of co-determination is good, a much greater measure of co-determination must be much better still," Ford said.

"I am very worried about suggestions which anticipate direct representation on our supervisory boards by union officials, without these union representatives having been elected from our employees."

"Ford said security was a strong incentive for private investment. He added ... I believe that chances for further development of the German economy during the last few years have become a little less secure because of the drawdown controversy about new legislation for co-determination."

$180 Million Net

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Dow Chemical Company reported net earnings of $180 million on sales of $1.27 billion for the third quarter of this year, the company said Thursday. This compared to the 1974 adjusted income of $204 million on sales of $1.34 billion, the company said.

Koehring To Sell Off Its MKT Division

MILWAUKEE — Koehring Company has announced an agreement in principle under which its MKT Division, Dover, N.J., will be sold for cash to a newly formed corporation.

Investors in the new corporation include three key executives of MKT: G. Robert Compiton, Joseph F. Rigler, and Raymond L. Fisher, who held the titles of president and general manager, general sales manager, and controller, respectively, of the division. Exact terms of the sale were not disclosed.

Last month Koehring announced the sale of two other divisions of the company: C. S. Johnson, Champaign, Ill., and Springfield Cast Products, Springfield, Mass.

Koehring Board Chairman Orville R. Mertz said, "This agreement is the latest in a carefully planned long-range divestiture program designed to concentrate corporate resources in our core businesses."

MKT was purchased by Koehring in 1967. It is a manufacturer of pile driving and extracting equipment and accessories.

Koehring is the parent firm of Benton Harbor Engineering.

Robbery Reported
In Berrien Springs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A clerk at Wicker's Dairy Queen here reported a lone gunman robbed her of about $120 about 7:30 last night, according to Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police.

Police said Karen Herzog, 15, 313 Pitt street, said a white man wearing a ski mask entered the store and pointed a gun at her and demanded money.

Officers from the Berrien county sheriff's department and the metro crime unit joined Berrien Springs village-Oronoko township police in a search of the man who eluded police.

Police said Miss Herzog reported the holdup man was wearing blue jeans, a green army fatigue jacket and appeared to be in his 20's.

She told police the man ran east on George street after the robbery at the dairy store on US-31.

There were no shots fired and the clerk was not injured in the reported holdup, police said.

Police said there have been no arrests in connection with the robbery.

VAN BUREN COURT

Hearing Is Demanded
On Narcotics Charge

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Staff Writer

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw man demanded preliminary examination Wednesday in Van Buren Seventh district court on a charge of manufacturing amphetamines.

Harold M. Weisman, 30, was arrested on the charge as the result of a Sept. 30 raid on a house in Bloomingdale where state police said they believed drugs were being made.

Weisman, 30, was released on his own recognizance pending a Nov. 11 hearing on the charge.

Troopers said they raided the house after an informant told them it was being used as a laboratory for the manufacture of amphetamines and heroin.

Quantities of suspected marijuana and amphetamines were confiscated, according to police.

'Blues' Running Out Of Money;
Cutback In Health Care Seen

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield officials said today the high health plan is living off its cash reserves and must come up with some way to limit payments to hospitals and doctors.

"Something has to give and I think it will mean a reduction in the quality of health care," Bennett J. McCarthy, board chairman of the Blues, said after a four-hour meeting of the insurers' board Thursday night.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield, the state's largest health insurer, blamed its financial predicament on the Michigan Insurance Bureau, a state government agency, which recently granted the two medical plans a combined average rate hike of 16.5 per cent, rather than the full 23.9 per cent they had requested.

Dr. Kenneth Tannenbaum, deputy director of the Insurance Bureau, said there would be no crisis and no reduction in the quality of patient care if the Blues mount "a truly effective cost containment program."

"I find it very sad that they are running out of money," Tannenbaum said today after he was told of the Blues' board meeting.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Washtenaw Area Narcotics Team staged a series of raids in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area today arresting 49 persons. They were charged with delivery of heroin, or related charges. Thirty-seven of those arrested were from Ann Arbor, the remaining 12 from Ypsilanti. Washtenaw County prosecutor William Delhey called a mid-morning news conference to discuss the raids, the third major hit in the county this year.

People will still be treated for their illnesses but the quality of care they receive may be less, some sources said.

Observers said the prospect of the Blues actually going bankrupt was remote.

A more likely prospect, they said, would be that Blue Cross would end up reimbursing hospitals at rates considerably below their actual costs.

I know as well as you that farmers have become a very small part of the entire population, and as such cannot have a large representation in our form of government. However, I do know that we as farmers have been supplying the people of the United States with a bountiful supply of food. Out "poverty" level is luxury in terms of the people in many foreign lands.

What I am saying is — be serious in your actions and make it possible for us to continue to provide all of us with plenty to eat.

READER REPORTS ON ABORTION DRUG

Editor,
I am writing to inform readers of a drug manufactured by Upjohn Company of Kalamazoo, Mich., which is produced to facilitate the abortion of second trimester fetuses. This drug is named Prostaglandin F2 Alpha and is very important in producing live babies for experimentation with of course is beneficial for researchers, while "touchy" for abortionists who could quickly find themselves in Dr. Edelin's present position.

Though many companies manufacture various drugs of comparable quality only this local firm holds the distinction of Prostaglandin F2 Alpha.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Spokesman for Upjohn Co. says his firm does, indeed, manufacture Prostaglandin F2 Alpha, which is marketed in the United States for termination of pregnancy during second trimester. Production of live fetus was possible but not purpose of drug, he said.

MIDDLE OF ROAD ISN'T GOOD ENOUGH

Editor,
President Ford says he is going down the middle of the road. I don't believe that is good enough.

If we, as a nation, don't have the right, we are headed for a crash. The great society programs are still in effect and they are pulling this country down. We can't survive half free enterprise and half socialism. England has shown us that socialism will not work. If we can't make the free enterprise system work, we are headed for ruin.

If someone like Ronald Reagan doesn't help lead us, we are going to be in bad shape. Every president since Hoover has let Russia sit at our table and if it isn't stopped, they are going to bury us.

I just can't believe a free people can do business with any communist country without being taken.

Murder Charged In Shooting Death

A Benton township woman was arrested Thursday by township police on an open charge murder in the shooting death of a Benton township man Monday.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Jacqueline Simmons, 27, of 1018 Blossom lane. A warrant, issued Thursday, charges her with murder of Leroy Alexander, 41, of 378 Bridgman avenue.

Alexander died of a single bullet wound from a .22 caliber pistol about 4 1/2 hours after the shooting while he was undergoing emergency surgery at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, about 4 1/2 hours after the shooting. Benton township Det. Lt. Harvey Bolter said the shooting occurred at Miss Simmons' public housing apartment on Blossom lane about 4:30 p.m.

The murder warrant was authorized by the Berrien prosecutor's office and signed by Fifth District Judge Hugh W. Black after investigation by township police. Initial reports indicated the shooting took place inside Miss Simmons' home, however, Bolter said subsequent investigation indicates the shooting took place outside.

Miss Simmons told police a man threatened her with a knife prior to the shooting. Police records show a call reporting a knife threat was made by Miss Simmons at 4:21 p.m., but the shooting occurred before a police car arrived at the residence.

Boy, 15, Charged In Wake Of Crash

A 15-year-old Stevensville boy was to be petitioned to Berrien juvenile court on five charges resulting from a one-truck accident early today in Lincoln township, Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

Deputy Daniel Gustafson said the accident occurred shortly after midnight on Thorton road almost a mile south of Notre Dame road.

The driver of the pickup truck was identified as David Edward Jeschke, 15, of 5648 St. Joseph avenue. He was alone in the truck when it rolled over after going out of control, Gustafson reported. The boy was treated for a minor cut at St. Joseph's Memorial hospital and released to the custody of his parents.

Gustafson said charges against Jeschke included drunk and disorderly, reckless driving, violation of a restricted driver's license, open intoxicants in a motor vehicle and minor in possession of intoxicants. Resco Jeschke, the boy's father, was ticketed for allowing an unlicensed minor to operate a motor vehicle, Gustafson indicated.

Senate Hopeful Has 'Backers, No Money'

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State House Republican Leader Dennis Cawthorne says he has enough backing, but not enough money, to run for the U.S. Senate nomination.

Cawthorne said Thursday he has sufficient supporters to give "a good tussle" to GOP Congressman Marvin Esch, the man some consider to be the frontrunner for the party nomination.

Cawthorne said he would make a decision whether to run by Nov. 15.

The Manistee lawmaker said his late start in getting money commitments has "been a bit of a problem" so far. He has said he would need at least $150,000 to enter the primary.

"If I had the level of funding in the primary, I think I could give Esch a good tussle," said Cawthorne. "I don't see that he is lighting any fires under the Republican party."

Esch has yet to formally announce his candidacy, but he said Thursday at Olivet College. "It (his formal announcement) will come in the near future."

Cawthorne said he has received strong support from Wayne County Republicans and some financial commitments from party leaders.

Cawthorne began his push for backing late last month after seven state House colleagues signed a letter to Republican state, district and county leaders praising Cawthorne as "aggressive, dynamic and articulate."

State GOP leaders, however, remained skeptical that he could muster the necessary support at such a late date.

Cawthorne said the recent announcement by Congressman Philip Ruppe that he would not seek the party's Senate nomination boosted his own interest in the seat, which will be left open by the retirement of Democratic Sen. Philip Hart.

"We would have hurt each other" if both had run, Cawthorne said.

Asked if he was tiring of his five-term House stay, the 34-year old bachelor said, "You reach a crossroads in your state legislative career, and I'm rapidly approaching that."

Republicans are the minority in the state House, and in heading his 44-member contingent, Cawthorne has had to be satisfied with little power in formulating legislation. He is also widely believed to harbor ambitions for the governor's job.

Cawthorne said he is confident his name is as familiar to
